(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, May 15.—Word that Herr Von Jacow, minister for foreign affairs, had been ordered by President von Hindenburg to sign a statement of government, the American note sent today as a consequence of the war zone, removed all anxiety here that Germany was really disinterested in the nature of the conference.
In view of telegraphic and cable delays the probable necessity for conferring with the German ambassador, imperial chancellor, Von Bethmann-Hollweg, who has been ill since himself, it would not be considered surprising here if the response did not arrive until after the conference had possibly, however, that Ambassador would have been able to answer in which the American note was received by the government and the official position taken.
The interior conference reveals that the German government has no official quarters that there will be no discussion of the subject of the war while the questions at issue are being discussed.
DOOM OF SUBMARINES
The intimation which came from press reports that Germany would make the effect that Germany would withdraw its submarines from the war zone to arbitration, was regarded here as a serious blow.

of submarine warfare on merchant ships while the discussion was in progress. The German government's declaration, however, also had been taken over by today's press dispatches as German officials had intimates, although without advice from Berchiesse were confident from previous reports that the German government to remain friendly with the United States. That arbitration would be a court of arbitration at this time, but the great possibility of participation might be desired at was pointed out by some of the German officers, making the impracticable.

At some way would be found to the United States and Germany was the conviction of many officials that the United States would not be heard.

the right of its citizens to travel freely and believes its position is completely legitimate. Germany, however, holds that this becomes a debatable question on a case of changed conditions. If, for example, the off-going traffic were restricted, submarines would direct attention to contraband ships.

The objection to this, however, in the opinion of some officials, is that the plan would not provide for the humane treatment which international law prescribes for the crew of a vessel carrying contraband. There is no attempt to search or any attempt to blockade. To torpedo without warning or even to give time for the crew of a vessel carrying contraband to escape would leave them to the mercy of the enemy.

It is in the American note and some of the official views the possible announcement of a blockade.

the principle of humanity for the United States has taken so much of the form of a demand for DISARM MERCHANT SHIPS. The suggestion would be dangerous in the world, and is doubtless denounced by the allies that none of the nations of the world is capable of Merchant ships of any national- ity according to a ruling from the state which would permit them to carry guns not larger than six caliber "for defensive purposes." It is to be hoped that the British government clearance has refused British ships at America's ports, and that the United States of such a disaster as befall the world.

ATLANTA PYTHIANS WILL ATTEND SAVANNAH MEET
More Than 150 Will Leave for Grand Lodge Gathering Tuesday Night

Over 150 Atlanta Knights of Pythias will leave the city Tuesday night at 10 o'clock on the grand chancery special over the Southern railroad for the annual meeting of the grand lodge of the order in Savannah.

The four Atlanta companies of the order will act as official escort, and Grand Chancellor H. M. Stanley, and he expects that the members of the grand lodge of north Georgia will be present. The Atlanta delegation together with those from other parts of the state, the grand lodge of Georgia, Grand Master, Mich. and Brigadier Gen. E. B. Doolittle, of Columbus, O., will arrive here on Tuesday morning.

W. G. Moore, member of Uniformed Services of the city, has been named to generate the work in Savannah for the Atlanta delegation. It is also expected that he will be there earlier as a member of the credentials and reports committee.

The entertainment program has been arranged for the entertainment of the knights in Savannah, and some important business will also be transacted. The convention opens with exercises at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at the Savannah theater. Past Chancellor Richard J. Lavant, mayor of the city will make the address of welcome on behalf of the city.

At 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at the Savannah theater, Past Chancellor Richard J. Lavant, mayor of the city will make the address of welcome on behalf of the city.

The grand lodge reunions shortly after noon at the Castle hall for a business session. Another business session will be held Thursday morning, and Thursday afternoon there will be a parade and prize drill.

Thursday night there will be a grand social at the Jemish temple No. 125 D. O. K. N.

The knights will take an excursion to the island Friday morning, and in the afternoon there will be a grand military parade. The visiting ladies will also be entertained.

CLARKSTON BOY SCOUTS HOSTS TO THEIR FRIENDS
Camp Fire Girls Special Guests at Entertainment and Drill

The boy scouts of Clarkston were hosts to a large audience of their friends Friday night at an entertainment and drill in their hall. The camp fire girls were the special guests of the occasion.

The scouts had arranged an attractive program, the drills especially being executed with a precision and vigor that won much praise.

In behalf of Baron DeKalb chapter, daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. Katherine Dillon presented one of the scouts, William Carter, with a handsome history, offered by the chapter as the boy making the best marks in United States history for the term in Clarkston High school.

STATE EXAMINATION FOR PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS

The Georgia state board of public accountants will hold its semi-annual examination of applicants Wednesday and Thursday of this week, May 19 and 20, in the parlors of the Anselby hotel.

Names of applicants from various parts of the state will come to Atlanta to stand their examinations, and the successful ones will be awarded certificates as certified public accountants by Governor Dillion in accordance with the state law on the subject.

The board is composed of Joel Hunter, of Atlanta, chairman; Col. R. W. Jamison, of Macon; and Hudson Moore, of Atlanta.

AGED MAN IS INJURED BY AN AUTOMOBILE

A Kell, an aged man of seventy years, was run down by an automobile at the corner of Marietta and Forsyth streets shortly after 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, suffering a broken hip and several minor bruises.

The automobile did not stop, but Kell was taken to the Grady hospital by an ambulance. The police are searching for the machine which hit him.

Kell lives at 216 Decatur street.

Geraldine Farrar Sings "Star Spangled Banner"

Special Performance Given Paris Sewing Girls--Soprano Creates a Sensation--Audience Joins in Air

Miss Geraldine Farrar's host of friends in Atlanta and the south will be interested in the following story in the New York Times of how she sang the "Star Spangled Banner," at the Metropolitan opera house in New York last Wednesday night, attired in a costume representing the Goddess of Liberty.

"The special performance of 'Carmen' given last night at the Metropolitan opera house for the benefit of the sewing girls of Paris became a patriotic demonstration for Americans for a short time a little before midnight.

"As the footlights turned on for the last act, W. Bourke Cockran came before the curtain and made a short speech thanking the audience and announcing the efforts of the patriotic demonstration for Americans for a short time a little before midnight.

"Then he caused considerable excitement over the auditorium by announcing the efforts of the patriotic demonstration for Americans for a short time a little before midnight.

"In a moment the curtains were parted, and Miss Farrar was revealed standing on a broad pedestal dressed as the Goddess of Liberty, a red and white striped skirt on the base of the pedestal, and over her left arm, and in her right an American flag resting with the butt of its staff on the ground. Beneath her on the base of the pedestal knelt Misses Braslau and Sparks, of the company, dressed in the white uniforms of trained nurses with red crosses on their arms.

"Behind the group stretched an enormous drop curtain of dull blue that covered the stage, and as the beams of calcium lights played on the singers from the wings a picturesque effect was created that sent gasps of excitement through the audience. It was taking the demonstration too seriously, however, to allow of applause at this time.

"Over the house the people rose to their feet involuntarily. Miss Farrar sang the first stanza alone to the accompaniment of the orchestra. Her voice rang out on the huge hall and till it filled the whole auditorium, and raised the flag, and the brass crashed on the final cadence, and then a storm of applause broke out.

"The curtain was raised and the audience could see the time, but the audience would not be satisfied.

"The singer gave a sign for silence, and then said, 'Please all sing it with me.'

"The second time the orchestra started. All through the house the audience took the tune up and those who had so often been sung to had their chance to raise their own voices in the Metropolitan Opera House. Among those who frequent it are singers who are no longer on the active list. Done front near the stage, on the south side of the building, there was one of these, and as the light note, which Miss Farrar had held previously came, a ringing tenor voice rose over all the others singing it. It held true to the pitch, and all eyes turned in the direction of the singer. Evidently for a moment he had imagined himself back on the stage. To see him nod at the applause that followed was the last touch needed to complete the picture.

"The crowd was as much carried away by its own enthusiasm as he was by his own. He applauded vigorously. But there were no more chances. Soon the concert appeared on the pit and the opera was resumed.

"The cast that was heard was for the most part the same that has previously appeared in the opera this season. In addition to Miss Farrar, there was Miss Alda as Mimosa, Mr. Martini as Don Jose, and Mr. Amato as the Torador. Andrea de Segura sang Zuniga, the tenor of Leon Rottier, and the others were Misses Sparks and Braslau and Messrs. Leonard, Reis, and Deferre.

Among those who heard the performance were Camille Saint-Saens, the French composer, who was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Otto H. Kahn, with M. Hovetier, Inspector General of Education for France. The Maharajah Jit Singh, Maharaja and the Maharani were in another box. In the audience were some of the officers of the Atlantic Fleet in dress uniform. After the first act M. Saint-Saens went behind the scenes to meet Mrs. Farrar.

WANT MUNICIPAL GOLF COURSE FOR WEST END

Citizens Urge Park Board to Establish Links in Moseley Park

A delegation of West End citizens who are members of the Seventh Ward Improvement club went before the city park board at a special meeting of that body yesterday and strongly indorsed the proposition to build a municipal golf course in Moseley park.

A month time ago J. H. Andrews, member of the park board from the seventh ward, introduced a resolution in the board providing for an investigation of the cost of a golf course and tennis courts in Moseley park and the resolution was passed by the board.

The Seventh Ward Improvement club met Tuesday night at its regular meeting and indorsed the proposition and appointed a committee to appear before the board Saturday.

On the committee were Alderman Amstutz and Councilman Dallas and representatives of the seventh ward, W. B. Vaher, W. T. Anderson, J. L. Kuffner, E. V. Carter, Jr., Robert Kaynie, E. F. Chidsey, Burgess Smith, J. F. Collier and others.

A number of enthusiastic speeches were made and the park board requested that a committee go to the park Saturday afternoon, immediately after the meeting adjourned, and look over the ground. This was done, those who went being J. O. Cochran, general manager of the park department, and Messrs. Kuffner, Carter, Collier, Andrews and Disbro, of the Seventh Ward Improvement club.

It was the opinion of Mr. Carter, who is a golf and tennis player, that Moseley park is an ideal location for a battery of tennis courts and a nine-hole golf course, and this opinion was shared by Park Manager Cochran.

As a result of the inspection of the park, a delegation representing the Improvement club will appear before the board on Saturday to ask for an appropriation of $5,000 in the June appropriation sheet to commence work.

It was pointed out by the West End citizens, all of whom are very enthusiastic over the proposition, that Moseley park has been purchased by the city and as yet is unimproved and undeveloped, that the park board has indorsed the idea of a golf course and tennis courts and is strongly supported by the Improvement club, that the golf course and tennis courts would not only be for the amusement and recreation of the people of West End but for the people of the whole city as well, just as the whole city enjoys the benefits of the park and, finally, but not least of all, Moseley park has a great historic interest because it was fought one of the main engagements in the battle of Atlanta.

The applications, with the board's recommendations, will be forwarded to the governor of the state for final action. The board said that they were not making unusual about the character of the applications.

Had Pellagra Seven Years; Thanks God He's Cured

Towards, S. C.—David G. Pate, of this city, writes: "I am glad to say to you, after waiting forty days, that I will feel like I am cured of pellagra. I had this disease for the last seven years. The first day after beginning your medicine I went back to work and have been able to do my work ever since. I thank God for your remedy."

There is no longer any doubt that pellagra can be cured. Don't delay until it is too late. It is your duty to consult the successful Baughn.

The symptoms—hands red like sunburn, skin peeling off, sore mouth, the lips, throat and tongue a flaming red, with much mucus and choking; indigestion and nausea, either diarrhoea or constipation.

There is hope, get Baughn's big Free Book on Pellagra and learn about the remedy for Pellagra that has at last been found. Address American Commission Co., box 202, Jasper, Ala., returning money is refunded in any case where the remedy fails to cure. (Adv.)

APPEAL MADE TO PUBLIC IN BEHALF OF THE BLIND

$1,500 Is Needed to Save Broom Factory and Home on Simpson Street

The Georgia association for the blind, through its president, Dr. J. W. Blosser, today issues an appeal to the people of the city and the state to prevent the blind man's trade, the broom factory and home on Simpson street, where nearly 100 blind folk eke out an existence, from being sold to the highest bidder.

The home is about to be sold to the highest bidder, the accumulated debts of the past year, Sheriff Mangum has been appealed to and has agreed to give the association time in which to see whether the inmates can be saved from being thrown into the streets penniless and without means of livelihood. With $1,500 Dr. Blosser says the home can not only be saved but put on a permanent sustaining basis. At present the home furnishes employment to both blind and crippled and shelters them in a dormitory.

The Georgia association for the blind was organized in 1911 and soon after ward broom making was found to be the blind man's trade. The property at 323 Simpson street was purchased in 1912 and a broom factory equipped with $600 worth of machinery, capable of turning out 20 brooms a day. When it was working in full time it is self-supporting. Lately it has been forced to close down on account of lack of material.

The public is invited to visit the factory. Subscribers will be gladly welcomed if sent to Dr. Blosser, to James Gillespie, treasurer of the home, Dr. J. Gunter, secretary; J. M. Sanders, buyer, or F. A. Gillette, superintendent, 22 South Broad street.

ARREST OF 5 TAKEN FOR WHOLESALE HOLD-UP

Alarmed at the sight of three men "holding up" a number of negroes on Williams street near Cain late Saturday night, R. A. McCall, of 50 Williams street, telephoned the city police that they were holding up people by wholesale.

Three call officers, who responded to the telephone message found three negroes in plain clothes, with five negroes under arrest. It was the capture of five men, who are now in the tower, that led McCall to think that a hold-up was in progress.

THRASHER RESIGNS FROM ATLANTA ATHLETIC CLUB

His Successor as Secretary Has Not Yet Been Chosen by Directors

B. E. Thrasher, Jr., for the past twelve years the secretary of the Atlanta Athletic club, resigned his position on Saturday and, according to members of the board of directors, his successor has not yet been selected.

Mr. Thrasher has made hundreds of friends both in and out of the club, which has grown in the past decade from a very small organization to one of the biggest social institutions in the south, who will regret to learn that his plans for the future will take him out of the city.

For a time, at least, however, Mr. Thrasher will continue to be "almost an Atlantan," for temporarily he is going to reside at his former home, a few miles from Athens.

The men he has walked along with him and talked, and suddenly when he felt for his pocketbook it was gone. He closed the men but they escaped.

It Means an Afternoon Headache and an Evening of Misery.

There is no necessity for it. The morning droop means the afternoon headache, the evening of misery. It means inefficiency in the office, the store, that you are worth less to yourself or your employer.

You know what causes that droop. If you don't, you ought to. It is indigestion eating or drinking or both; or it may come from irregularity of habit or lack of exercise. Any one of these may cause constipation and create toxic poisons which attack and injure the vital organs.

Stop it now. You can do it and prevent it in future. When you get up in the morning take Jacobs' Liver Salt.

Just a small dose of it—two teaspoonfuls—in a generous glass of water. You will find it a bubbling, sparkling, pleasant drink, and you can go to work with a quick step and a keen mind.

If you take calomel, it will take you a day to get over it. There is a day lost in addition to the undermining effect of this dangerous and powerful drug which soon must have severe and deleterious effect upon the system.

Jacobs' Liver Salt will do what most needs to be done, and in the most gentle and delightful way—no pain or grating, etc., at Jacobs' and druggists generally. (Adv.)

CASH SALE RAISING

Beginning Monday morning, Cloud-Stanford Co. will precipitate the greatest money-saving event the public have ever been offered at this season of the year.

We're in need of funds—Compelled to raise a large amount of cash within a given time and our only recourse is to place our stock of Clothing, Hats and Furnishings on sale for a limited period at greatly reduced prices for cash only.

We must have the money—the actual cash—and this is our only means of raising it.

GEORGIANS TESTIFY TO MAYR'S REMEDY

Lives Redeemed and Fortunes in Health Are Recovered.

Most of the problems of health originate in the stomach. Most of these ailments can be cured. Thousands of people right in the state of Georgia are needlessly suffering from stomach troubles, while thousands of others have found health by the use of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. The first dose of this remarkable remedy is proof. Here are the words of two Georgians who have used it:

B. DUNCAN, 125 W. Peachtree St., Atlanta, Ga.—"I took one bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and it did me so much good I must continue the treatment."

SALISTA THOMAS, 55 La. France St., Atlanta, Ga.—"I have taken your remedy for five weeks. I feel like I hardly know my strength—my appetite is fine."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get a bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—no satisfactory money will be returned. (Adv.)

MELTON IS ACQUITTED ON MURDER CHARGE

Man Accused of Killing Mance
Peel Weeps When Given
His Freedom

When a jury in Judge Hill's court last Saturday afternoon brought in a verdict of "not guilty" in the case of J. E.
Melton, arraigned for the second time for the murder of Mance Peel, whom he shot and killed in December, 1913, in Harris county, the defendant wept with joy and with tears streaming down his face shook hands with the twelve men who had exonerated him.

The first hearing of Melton resulted in a mistrial and the case was transferred to Atlanta on a change of venue.
Melton in the meantime went back to Harris county on bond, but feeling more so high there that he was twice shot at on Friday the case began again in Atlanta. Friday there was still much feeling among citizens of Harris county who came here to attend the trial.

Melton's plea was self-defense. He was represented by W. E. Mundy. The prosecution, directed by L. M. Peel, a brother of the dead man, was conducted by George C. Palmer, solicitor of the Columbia superior court, assisted by E. A. Stephens, assistant solicitor of the Fulton superior court.
The case went to the jury about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The jurymen reached a decision after twenty minutes conference, but the verdict was not announced until nearly 3:30 o'clock. While friends of the dead man were leaving, Melton stayed in the courtroom. He said he would leave Atlanta Saturday night with his brother, but instead of returning to Harris county he will go to another county, about sixty miles away, where he is working.

Positive Relief For Constipation

The progress of modern medical science is, perhaps, no more forcefully evident than in the simplifying of many of the old time remedies of past generations. For instance, the harsh cathartics and violent purgatives used by our forefathers to relieve constipation are now known to be not only unnecessary but really harmful. Constipation can be more effectively relieved without the discomfort and pain these old-time remedies caused.

A combination of simple laxative herbs with peppin, sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Peppin is most effective, yet mild and pleasant. It is absolutely free from opiates and narcotics and equally as desirable for remedy for the infant babe as for rugged manhood. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

ASKS $25,000 DAMAGES FOR INJURY TO CHILD

Grandmother Seeks to Recover for Loss of Services of Child Given to Her

Whether a person who has been involved in the custody of a child in its infancy by its parents can recover damages for loss of the child's services through injury, is a point raised in a suit filed Saturday in the superior court by Attorney Lawton Nalley, counsel for the plaintiff.

Sarah Reed, grandmother of Della
May Mitchell, nine years old, demands $25,000 damages from J. L. Harrison, alleging the child fell through a hole in the porch of a house rented from Harrison, sustaining injuries which permanently incapacitated her from rendering further service to the grandmother. It is charged the defendant was notified of the faulty condition of the porch and failed to make the necessary repairs.

MOTORCYCLISTS GIVEN CHANCE TO BE GOOD

Following the arraignment in record-ers court Saturday afternoon of a motorcyclist on the charge of having the mufflers on his machine cut out, Recorder Johnson advised policemen and to make arrests for such offenses the first time they occur, but to let first-offenders and make cases only after they persisted in cutting out the mufflers. He fined the offender $15, it being his first offense.

Great Sport at St. Mary's Dur- ing Month of May When Schools of Fish Frequent In- lets

Have you ever heard the drums drum?
They are drumming on the Georgia coast now and to fishermen the music is sweeter than grand opera. It's the time for their annual pilgrimage, and the coast inlets are thronged with them. When the tide is right their water concerts sound like the muffled beatings of a faraway band.

Recently A. Hardy Ulm, executive secretary to Governor Slaton and State Entomologist, E. Lee Worsham returned to Atlanta bringing with them many big fish and the tale of the drums. They say their facts can be verified at St.
Mary's, the quality of Georgia town which nestles on a bluff in the extreme southeastern corner of the state.

When the moon is ripening in April and May St. Mary's is the mecca for fishermen the country over. During the past month the drum have been caught by thousands. The Atlantians say their party caught more than 2,000 pounds in four hours.

Drum fish belong to the big varieties, ranking with tarpon and channel bass.
They are fine eating, too. Though they are sluggish, they are game. They feed head downwards—"holding" is the fishermen's term—and lift the hook after the fashion of a crab. They don't grab and run away like a trout, but resist capture so stoutly that the fishermen are exerted to the utmost before one is landed.

They call them drum fish because they drum. At times you can hear them fathoms deep, the water conveying the sound and the boat acting as a sounding board. But water is so deepening a sound conductor that the fish may be a quarter of a mile away though the drum sounds like it's right under the boat.

Drum weigh in from forty to 100 pounds and when they are biting good during the six months spawning season in spring—their bite for fishermen is like the hammer of fate. They travel in big schools. Over 500 pounds of drum were brought back to Atlanta by Mr. Ulm and Mr. Worsham and distributed at the state capitol to their friends. The latter tendered a big vote of thanks to the fishermen and expressed the hope that they will visit St.
Mary's again next spring.

PARDON BOARD TO FIX DATE FOR FRANK CASE

Conference Will Be Held Monday Morning to Decide
When It Shall Be Heard

Members of the state prison commission will hold a conference Monday morning, to decide on the date for hearing arguments on the petition of Leo M. Frank, for a commutation of his sentence to imprisonment.

The commissioners have not been called into special session for this conference, but when Frank's attorneys learned that all three of them would probably be in Atlanta on Monday they decided to ask them to agree on a date for the hearing.

The next regular session of the commission will be held during the week beginning Monday, June 7. Whether the commission will wait until that time to hear the Frank case or whether it will hold a special session prior to that time for that purpose will be determined on Monday.

It is expected that the hearing on Frank's petition will require about two days and that because of the length of the record the commission will take several days, perhaps a week, to consider it after the hearing is held, although the commissioners have been in possession of copies of the record ever since Frank filed his petition about two weeks ago, and it is understood they have all read through the record one or more times.

On account of the time expected to be required by the commission in hearing arguments and studying the record it has been thought that the commission might call a special session in advance of its June meeting to dispose of the case.

BARACA-PHILATHEAS ADOPT OFFICIAL ORGAN

The Baraca-Philathea group, an Atlanta paper devoted to the study of these societies, and edited by Gordon G. Singleton, of Atlanta, has been adopted as the official organ of the societies in Georgia and Florida, according to officials of the national convention in Rome, Ga.

The Rome convention was declared to have been the most successful adult convention ever held in Georgia. Echoes from it will be heard at the meeting of the city union at the Second Baptist church Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

OAK GROVE SCHOOL CLOSES FOR SESSION

The closing exercises of the Oak Grove district public school were held Saturday afternoon and night.
In addition to the old time Cross rection of Professor A. L. Barbee, there was at 3 o'clock in the afternoon a flag raising and an educational and athletic address by Colonel Robert Lee Avary, of the Atlanta bar.

INTEREST IS GROWING IN HORSE SHOW; 54 ENTRIES

Judge John S. Candler, Nym McCullough and R. C.
Congdon Enter Horses

Much interest is being shown in the horse show, which will be held at Piedmont park on Tuesday and Wednesday, and there are now fifty-four entries.

Eleven classes will be shown on both the first and second nights. There is certain to be keen competition for the cups offered the best horses among the city and county mounted police, and among the enlisted men of the government's horse guards.

The news that Judge John S. Candler has entered his two famous horses, King and Bonnie, has created much interest, as has the entry by R. C.
Congdon of his horse "King Dudley," and the entry by Nym McCullough, of his horse, which have won the blue ribbons at so many shows.

the post at the Burns club at noon next Saturday.

BACK ACHES? PUFFY ANKLES OR EYE- LIDS, DROPSY, DIABETES

Spots Before the Eyes Are Sure Signs of Weak Kidneys.

Swollen or puffy eyelids or ankles, twinges or back pains in the region of kidneys, spots before the eyes, yellow skin, shortness of breath, dizziness, dropsy, diabetes, difficulty in urinating, rheumatism, headaches, are sure signs of weak kidneys. The moment you experience any of the above symptoms get from your reliable druggist a bottle of Stuart's Buchu and Juniper Compound. Take a tablespoonful after each meal. Drink plenty of water. In a day or so your kidneys and bladder will act fine and natural.
The symptoms disappear like magic,
for Stuart's Buchu and Juniper Compound acts quickly on the kidneys and bladder, strengthens these organs and drains all impurities from the kidneys.
You then quickly regain your buoyancy and ambition. The skin, taking on the red hue of pure rich blood. All swellings in ankles or eyelids pass away. Diabetes and dropsy is cured.
Back pains and shortness of breath cease to worry you.—(Adv.)

T. H. S. BASKETBALL TEAM CHOOSES NEW LEADERS

Colcord and Harlan Will Be Chiefs of Purple and Gold Quintet

BY J. E. HAMLETT.

At a recent meeting of the members of the T. H. S. basketball team Colcord was elected captain and Harlan manager of the 1915-16 team. Colcord should prove a good general and with the help of our coaches, Mr. McIntyre and Mr. Martin, should build up a team that will warm up the interest in the prep league. The men who won their letters this year in basketball are:

Cintz, Harlan, Fincher, Colcord, W. Redell, Banker, J. Redell, Hamlett. Of these only one member, Ed Cintz, will be lost by graduation. Cintz is undoubtedly one of the greatest forward players the prep league has ever turned out and we are proud that his efforts were made under the banner of the purple and gold. At present prospects are bright for the 1916-17 team and our court ready for early practice we hope to make an excellent showing.

Everything seems to be progressing nicely and we are preparing for the week of final exams beginning about the 26th of May. Of course the enjoyment in the anticipation of the coming finals is limited to the boys who are so fortunate as to have the yearly average of 75 per cent in all their school work. The boys who have succeeded in making the average in most of our studies and feel very deeply for the less fortunate boys who are to take the finals.

The senior class boys are especially busy nowadays, juggling over the fact that the work on the school annual is completed, the preparation for the banquet and looking forward to getting "edges."

The baseball season is drawing rapidly to a close, and while we have not won from all the schools in the league, we succeeded in defeating Peacock, Donald Fraser, G. M. A., and losing to Boys' High and Marist. Look out for Tech High next year as in all departments of athletics we are going to make a "clean sweep."

G. M. A. HAS GOOD RECORD WITH MILITARY AFFAIRS

Seniors Will Stand Special
Exams, in Order to Qualify With Militia

BY W. DELANEY WAT.

Without doubt the year of every cadet in the academy and probably in other schools with similar training is over and for many it will be their school career, or will be their last day with the dear old school. The seniors will commence another year here in September.

Every one is ready to end the year for the seniors which they have spent during the year, such as, diplomats, assistant officers, etc., and many others who will make proud parents.

Although the year has not been a very successful one in some form of athletics, it has in other respects, with all previous ones in the academic and military departments, along with a superb social year.

The seniors find it is usual for a senior to work for the year, and has been for other senior classes. They were started the past week with a written military exam before they were eligible for a diploma. This exam is part of that which is required by the state militia with a commission, so that the seniors are being prepared to enter their own organization. As it is well known in the academy, the seniors will be tested in the field, and to find their standing high.

The baccalaureate service will be preached in a local church this year on the 22nd with the junior-senior debate on the 24th with commencement exercises on the night of the 25th with awarding of the medals and other honors. The seniors will be tested in the field, and to find their standing high.

PORTUGUESE REBELS BOMBARD CAPITAL; EX-PREMIER SLAIN

Revolutionists Headed by National Navy Open Fire From River and Kill Many Citizens of Lisbon

(By Associated Press.)
LONDON, May 18.—A rebel naval squadron has bombarded the city of Lisbon, where a revolution is in progress, from the river Tagus, according to further advice from Madrid, received by the Pabra agency. The rebels are said to have killed many citizens of Lisbon. The Pabra agency also received a dispatch from Lisbon stating that the rebels had killed the ex-premier, Dr. Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, and that they had captured the city of Vaso da Gama, near the mouth of the Tagus river.

Berlin Paper Says American Press Purchased by Britain
LONDON, May 18.—A Reuters dispatch from Amsterdam, says a German newspaper received there from Berlin reads:

"The American news has not yet been published, and the papers are chary of commenting on the published forecasts. Prof. Heibron, writing in Der Tag says:

"The English press and the American press, bought up by England, are being brought already to exploit the Lusitanian disaster against Germany to stir up America against us. The non-aligned American government, however, hardly will be able to draw serious conclusions from the destruction of the Lusitania, and the loss of American passengers."

"Americans entrusted themselves and their goods to an auxiliary cruiser of a belligerent power. The Lusitania was a Lusitanian knowingly entered a war zone on a sea differently from a war zone on land."

U. S. PLANS NAVY BIG ENOUGH TO INSURE PEACE, SAYS DANIELS

The last Congress authorized a naval reserve which is in process of organization; that we have twenty-four submarines, which are the equal of those of any other country, and that one fleet of submarines has just completed a remarkable long distance run; that we recognize that we are not alone in our efforts; that we have lately ordered eight million dollars specially appropriated by the last Congress for aviation; that within the last two years the navy's mine equipment has been more than doubled; that we are adding to our fleet of auxiliaries; while more and more we are proud of our navy as it is. We are ready to give our cooperation in making it better and greater."

also have launched a vigorous offensive in Southeastern Galicia and along the Bukovina frontier as a diversion. It is obvious, however, that the last stand will be made behind the north-west and southwest lines extending from the Vistula, to Przemyśl and thence to the Dniester river and the Romanian frontier.

The next few days will show whether the Russians can hold even a small section of Galicia.

When the correspondent left headquarters on Monday for a visit to Tarnobrzeg and Gorlice, the front seemed as if the pause in battle operations usually following a great victory had come and that the troops here would have to interrupt their advance for a brief period to give the men a rest from their exertions, straight from the line and advance the railroad communications to new bases.

General Conrad von Hotzendorff pushed his armies forward in a strategic plan as cleverly devised and executed as he planned for Tarnobrzeg and Gorlice. He kept the armies thoroughly in hand, avoided confusion and kept the armies in order, asymmetrical lines.

The general's scheme of a battle had been to swing the Austro-German armies on Ustok Pass, as a pivot, Arch Duke Joseph Ferdinand's troops in the vicinity of the Vistula on the other wing having the longest distance to advance. It is now the turn of the troops east of Ustok and their advance is in full progress.

SCHOOL WORK PRAISED BY HEAD OF BOARD

Principals and Teachers Given Credit for Best Year in History of System

According to Major R. J. Guinn, president of the city board of education, the public schools of Atlanta during the school year now approaching a close have done the best year's work in the history of the school system, and the credit for this record, Major Guinn gave in large measure to the principals of the schools and through them to the teachers.

Major Guinn paid the foregoing high compliment to the principals and teachers at the regular monthly meeting of principals held yesterday in the Girls High school.

"At this time I wish to say to you and Major Guinn, that I regard the work done by the schools of Atlanta during the term which will soon close to be the very best year's work the schools of this city have ever done, and I desire to bestow the credit for the year's work in a very large measure upon the principals and through them to the teachers."

"The schools this year have worked under circumstances which might have been expected to have a demoralizing tendency. The number of grades was reduced from eight to seven because of the reorganization of the school system. In addition to these changes the school department has been subjected to a great deal of investigation, criticism and publicity."

"In spite of these things and in spite of the very poor plans in which, unfortunately, a number of the schools have taught, the principals and teachers have not allowed their attention to be diverted from their devotion to the duty and determination to the task of giving their pupils the best education they could give."

"In mentioning the investigations which have been made of the schools and the criticisms that have been expressed concerning the condition of certain school plants, I do not wish to be understood as reciting these evidences of an interest in school affairs as the part of school patrons for whom the sentiment thus brought about is to be of the most wholesome and far-reaching value to the department. The fact that the public is aroused concerning the schools is not to be regretted, and should be a source of satisfaction to every member of the board and every citizen interested in the welfare and efficiency of public education in Atlanta."

In the course of his remarks to the school principals, Major Guinn made the interesting announcement that the board of education is planning to provide transportation next year for all

Man Wanted to Be Put on Probation To Please His Wife

Simply to please his wife, and not because he had done anything out of the way, a man who gave his name as W. H. Turner, his occupation as a real estate agent and his address at 415 North Boulevard, made an unsuccessful attempt yesterday to be put on probation.

With another man, said to be his brother, he went to Probation Officer Cochran at police headquarters yesterday afternoon and made his novel request to be put on probation.

"It is not that I have done wrong," he explained, "but it's this way—I am wife object."

He then went on to explain that his wife was nervous about the trip, and he was apparently afraid that when a man was on probation he had to report regularly to the police, and he believed that with the safeguard his wife would need and he could proceed on his trip.

The matter was referred to Judge Johnson, but the recorder ruled that merely placing a wife was no ground for arrest. He accordingly told Turner to go his way.

THEOLOGICAL SCHOOL TO GIVE TWO DIPLOMAS

Commencement Exercises to Be Held at Wesley Memorial Church Tonight

The first annual commencement exercises of the Candler School of Theology, which is the department of the Wesleyan University for the training of Methodist, theological students, will be held Sunday evening at the Wesley Memorial church with a sermon by Bishop Warren Candler, chancellor of the university.

Twenty students are in the department first class, and two of them will be given the degree of Bachelor of Divinity. They are S. Keener Randolph, Elk City, Okla., and Robert S. Huff, of Mississippi. These two students had already done two years of theological work. The other students are planning to return to school next fall.

NASH AND BAUNSON ARE HELD UNDER $500 BOND

L. J. Nash, of 423 East Fair street, and J. S. Baunson, a dental student, who shot and wounded each other in a fight last few days, were bound over by Recorder Johnson yesterday afternoon on a charge of assault with intent to murder. Their bonds were fixed at $500 each.

The crippled children in the city who have no conveyance of their own to take them to school, in the city of New York, for instance, automobile for this purpose, and this or some such plan will be carried out here.

ATLANTIANS HONORED BY BAPTISTS AT HOUSTON

Rev. John F. Purser and Rev. B. D. Gray Re-Elected to Mission Board

HOUSTON, Tex., May 15.—Rev. J. F. Purser, of Richmond, Va., tonight was elected by the Southern Baptist convention in session here corresponding secretary of the Baptist Home Mission board. Mr. Love selected Rev. R. J. Williamson, of Richmond, Va., deceased, J. K. Johnson, of Richmond, Va., deceased, and the presidents and corresponding secretaries of the other four boards were re-elected.

Headquarters of the boards elected their own officers but a change in the by-laws, adopted at the present convention, provided for the election of the principal officers by the convention. Secretaries other than corresponding secretaries of the several boards are to be chosen later by the boards. Mr. Williamson also held the title of general secretary of the Foreign Mission board. This office was abolished.

Officers re-elected include Rev. John F. Purser, Atlanta, Ga., president, and Rev. B. D. Gray, Atlanta, Ga., corresponding secretary of the Home Mission board, and Rev. E. E. Folk, Nashville, Tenn., corresponding secretary of the Sunday school board.

FIFTH REGIMENT BAND TO PLAY IN SAVANNAH

Has Been Engaged to Furnish Music During May Week Festival

The Fifth Regiment band of Atlanta has been engaged to furnish music during the May Week Festival to be held in Savannah May 17 to 22 in celebration of the founding of the colony of Georgia by General James Oglethorpe.

The landing of General Oglethorpe and his Indians by Indians will be re-enacted in costume on the ground where these historic events took place. General Oglethorpe, his friend, the Indian chief, Tomochichi, Mary Musgrove, Colonel Bull and the colonists will proceed up the Savannah river in the good ship Ann, and will land at the foot of Bull street, where the colonists first set foot on Georgia soil.

Here, the Fifth Regiment band will play "God Save the King," "America," "Dixie" and other patriotic songs. The colonists will then march to Park Extension, where an Indian village will be encamped and the pipe of peace will be smoked by General Oglethorpe and Tomochichi and his council of warriors.

Youth Who Waxed Hilarious at Party Is Fined $3.75

No, Miss Ethel Vinson told the recorder, there was nothing on her part invitations about "Please do not come intoxicated," so the judge laughed and fined Luther Goodwin, nineteen years old, of 19 Pondera avenue, but $3.75.

Young Mr. Goodwin, it appeared from the evidence, was invited to the party, arriving at the Vinson home shortly after the festivities started, in a highly hilarious condition. His joy was so unbridled that Miss Vinson promptly sent a telephone and had young Mr. Goodwin arrested.

"When you sent out your invitations, did you inform the guests they were expected to arrive sober?" inquired Recorder Johnson facetiously.

"No," said Miss Vinson.

"Well, I'll have to give you a small fine, anyhow," said the honor to Goodwin.

Obituary

Died, May 12, 1915, Mrs. Ella Alldredge, Whitehead, aged, fifty-four years.

"She opened her mouth with wisdom; And the law of kindness is on her tongue. Her children rise up and call her blessed."

In all the virtues that constitute the connected modern industry, devotion, vigilance, love, duty, self-sacrifice, self-denial—she was supreme. All the attributes of modern social life were without charm—her sole concern, her only ambition, were the welfare and happiness of her children.

She taught, not by precept, but by example—the maternal mother whose precious memory is forever shrouded in the tears of her grief-stricken children. Her life will be their inspiration, her matchless virtues a sacred heritage.

"The angels whispering to one another, Can find among their burning tongues of love. None so devout as that of mother."

"Her suffering ended with the day; Yet lived she at its close. And breathed the long, long night away. In slumber-like repose. But when she, in all its state, 'Illumed the eastern skies,' She passed through glory's morn'ng-gate, And walked in Paradise."

COUNCIL MAY NAME CITY PURCHASING AGENT SOON

Believed Mayor Will Announce Intention of Taking Matter to Courts

Council is slated, when it meets on Monday afternoon, to go into the election of a purchasing agent, under the new system, and it is probable that Mayor Woodward will announce to the council, when he comes to preside at the election, that he will refuse to sign checks for the salary of a purchasing agent elected by council, and so take the controversy to the courts.

The mayor on Saturday would make no definite statement as to his plans, but repeated the assertion that council's action in not having the aldermanic board take separate action on his veto of the amendment is illegal, and that the courts would so hold. There is no position in council to the election of W. E. Chambers, who holds the place now under the appointment of the recently abolished purchasing committee.

The terms of two members of the board of education expire this month and the election to fill their places will in all probability be held Monday. The members, whose terms on the board expire

APPLY POSLAM; SEE HOW QUICKLY PIMPLES GO

Poslam is the most useful remedy for Pimples, Undermines and minor skin affections, as it is for Eczema and stubborn eruptions diseases.

To see how quickly it will dispose of Pimples or clear an inflamed complexion, apply Poslam to the affected spot at once. Poslam takes hold and exerts its work of healing at once. You can tell after one or two applications just how it is going to act. Its results after a brief time are often surprising—almost incredible. Poslam is absolutely harmless.

Your druggist sells Poslam. For free sample write to: Emergency Laboratories, 32 West 25th St., New York. Poslam Soap, medicated with Poslam, 25 cents and 15 cents.—(Adv.)

Sellers' Kitchen Cabinets

Your Own Idea of What a Kitchen Cabinet Should Be

WHENEVER you have thought of a Kitchen Cabinet as a desirable assistant in your kitchen, or you have seen one advertised, certain conveniences have occurred to your mind as being necessary parts of it. The SELLERS' Kitcheneed realizes every such expectation.

Every SELLERS' Kitcheneed is a combination of certain conveniences that exhaustive experiment and long experience (over a quarter century in the exclusive manufacture of kitchen furniture) have proven to be real, desirable, labor-saving devices.

That is why we say that a SELLERS' Kitcheneed is your own idea of what a Kitchen Cabinet should be—because it does the things that you've always expected a Kitchen Cabinet would do.

MANSFIELD AND DANNALS

PROVE SPLENDID HOSTS

Atlanta Military Company Officials Gain Title of "Regular Hosts"

W. C. Mansfield and Charles N. Dannals, post and quartermasters of the Atlanta Military Company, have gained the title of the "regular hosts."

At noon every day, the Southern Wholesale company convention was in session here last week, and there were four days, Mr. Mansfield and Mr. Dannals entertained 120 guests, yet there was no "crush."

A little arithmetic will show that the two officials of the big milling company entertained 120 guests, yet there was no "crush."

In fact the crowd at each luncheon was just big enough to have the best sort of a time and to go off with a good feeling.

WOOLRIDGE HOME FROM "GET ACQUAINTED" TRIP

Campbell Woolridge, Southern passenger agent of the Texas & Pacific railway, returned Saturday from a "get acquainted" trip of freight and passenger train representatives of the road, beginning Saturday, May 7, at Shreveport, La., and lasting until Monday, May 12, when the party broke up in Fort Worth, Texas.

An excursion 30 miles into Mexican territory from El Paso was one of the features of the trip, said Mr. Woolridge.

The new forts and buildings devastated by fire and there was no actual fighting while the railroad visitors were in the territory.

N. M. Leach, of New Orleans, general freight manager of the road, and George D. Hunter, of Dallas, general passenger agent, both of whom were recently visitors in Atlanta, were among the many officials on the visitors' trip.

WELCOMES ARREST AS VAGRANT DRUG FIENDS

Chief of Police Beavers Saturday night instructed the police to make special efforts to arrest vagrant drug fiends.

The first man to fall into the net of the crusaders was Robert Parr, aged 32, of 1000 Peachtree street, who was arrested at the Cannon hotel on Pryor street.

After he had been at police headquarters for a few hours, Parr, on the police, said, told them that he was a drug fiend.

POISONING CASE NOT TO BE PROBED BY CORONER

Funerals of Wood Alcohol Victims Held—James Caldwell May Recover

Coroner Paul Donohoe has decided to hold no inquest into the death of John and Emmet Blount, John Lynch, Mrs. Fannie Caldwell and Mrs. Mary North, who died within forty-eight hours of each other, after they drank wood alcohol at a party.

The sixth member of the party, and the only survivor, James Caldwell, is still in a serious condition at the Grady hospital, although physicians now entertain the hope that he will live and that his eyesight, which has been affected, will not be lost.

The funerals of John and Emmet Blount were conducted Friday afternoon at the church of the Immaculate Conception; the funeral of John Lynch took place Saturday morning at St. Anthony's church, and the funeral of Mrs. North and Mrs. Caldwell, mother and daughter, were conducted Saturday afternoon at the Grady hospital.

The three men victims of the strange poison case were buried at Oakland cemetery, while the bodies of John and Emmet Blount were taken to the College Park cemetery.

Coroner Donohoe decided that an inquest was unnecessary as his investigation has shown that the facts are exactly as stated in the Journal, namely, that the Blount boys found a quantity of grain alcohol at a neighbor's house, and that the alcohol was being used for medicinal purposes.

The ways and means committee of the Woman's Auxiliary to Wesley Memorial hospital is being congratulated on collecting a fund of $24,000 toward the erection of a new Wesley Memorial hospital. $75,000 has been added by Mr. Ann Chandler.

These ladies were the guests of honor at a luncheon, given on Thursday at the Chamber of Commerce by the Founders' club of Emory University.
The committee includes Mrs. R. R. Ramble, Mrs. Henry H. Tucker, Mrs. W. R. Prescott, Mrs. John A. Miller, Mrs. Florence Candler Harris, Mrs. Warren Candler, Mrs. Elizabeth Winship Bates, Mrs. R. P. Milam, Mrs. T. R. Kendall, Miss Susie Wells, Mrs. R. H. White, Mrs. J. P. Carr, Mrs. R. P. Fraser, Mrs. E. McDougall, Mrs. J. T. Stevens, Mrs. T. C. Comer, Miss Marjorie Thomas, Mrs. W. B. Mann, Mrs. Perry, Mrs. C. E. Wilson, Mrs. H. W. Grant, Mrs. Arthur Wilson, Mrs. J. A. Manget, Mrs. J. S. Paine, and Mrs. Thomas Jones.

Birthday Party
Little Doris and Dorothy Samuels, two sisters, entertained the members of their class at kindergarten Friday morning in celebration of their sixth birthday.

Two large cakes embossed in pink were arranged at either end of a long table placed on the lawn beneath the trees. At the place of each little guest, baskets of candy and paper cups were given as souvenirs.

Many bright games were played and an interesting feature was the crowning of the little hostesses with wreaths made of pink roses.
Forty-four young guests were entertained.

HAYNES
The Diamond Center of Atlanta

Haynes is naturally the center of the Diamond Center. Their display is unequalled and everyone sold by them is the finest diamond at the price it is possible to buy.

You get the benefit of their expert knowledge of precious stones as well as that fine satisfaction of knowing that the quality of your purchase whether large or small is unquestioned.

You are cordially invited to take advantage of the Haynes' attractive divided payment plan.

One-fifth cash and the balance in ten equal monthly payments.

Write or call for our booklet on Diamonds which gives many interesting facts concerning precious stones.

MUSICAL PROGRAM FOR SUNDAY AFTERNOON, FIVE TO SEVEN, AT EAST LAKE COUNTRY CLUB

A MUSICAL program of unusual beauty has been arranged for the hours between 5 and 7 on Sunday afternoon at the East Lake Country club. The week end at the country clubs is gaining in popularity and the Saturday afternoon tea dances at the Druid Hills Golf club, the dinner dances at the Piedmont club and Capital City club and the Saturday evening dances given by the Athletic club offer delightful occasions for informal entertaining among the club members.
The surroundings of the country clubs are unusually picturesque and the spacious verandas and wide terraces offer a cool and inviting retreat during the summer days.

Interesting Wedding Plans

Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Barlow Osborn have issued invitations to the approaching marriage of their daughter, Ollie Mae, to Mr. Charles H. Wright, on June 2.

The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's parents and the only attendants will be Miss Julia May Osborn, of Augusta, maid of honor; Mr. John R. Ellis, Jr., best man; and Ravenel Beckwith and Floyd Cooper, ribbon bearers.

Rev. S. R. Bell, of Gainesville, will perform the ceremony.
A series of parties have been planned in honor of Miss Osborn. On May 21, Mrs. J. N. Staples will give a bridge tea and on Saturday, May 22, Miss Alma Downing will entertain at a matinee party at the Forsyth for Miss Osborn. She will be honor guest at Miss Laura Jones' theater party Monday afternoon, May 24, at the Forsyth theater and Mrs. Hugh Daniel will entertain at bridge Wednesday afternoon, May 26. Miss Mary Will will give a bridge party in compliment to Miss Osborn on Thursday afternoon, May 27, and Mrs. Floyd Cooper will entertain at a theater party Monday afternoon, May 31.

Others who will entertain, the dates to be announced later, are Mrs. Harry Poole, Mrs. Charles Marshall and Mrs. James Horne.

Artistic Nature Festival

The Normal Training school will hold their commencement exercises Thursday afternoon, May 27, and Friday evening, May 28, at the school on Lee street. A congenial entertainment has been planned, and in the "Festival of Nature," many flowers and animals will be represented.

The program will present many interesting features, introducing the four seasons, spring, summer, autumn and winter. A character representing "Mother Nature," leads in the play and the story of the year is told in the interpretive dances, various choruses and impersonations of flowers, birds, bees and trees.

The first chorus will be "Welcome To Springtime," and the special dances to include the "Dance of the Rivers," the "Dance of the Rain," the "Dance of the Wood Fairies," the chorus and dance of the daffodils, the "Dance of the Butterflies," and ending the beautiful scenes, the "Dance of the Falling Leaves."

Spring Meeting of City Federation

The spring meeting of the City Federation of Women's clubs will be held on Wednesday, May 19, at 1 a. m., at the Atlanta Woman's club building in Baker street, the meeting to be called to order promptly by the president, Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin.

The spring meeting of the Federation is of marked importance in the club life of Atlanta. Brief reports of the past year's work will be made by the president's of the eighty-nine clubs that comprise the federation, each president's talk to be limited to three minutes.

Luncheon will be served at the meeting by the domestic science class of the Girls' High school. The honor guests will be the board of education, Professor Sloan, Mayor Woodward and Judge Tindal.

The event of the afternoon session will be an address by Judge Tindal at a o'clock on "The Juvenile Court and Detention Home—Their Service to the Community." The City Federation was first instrumental in creating an interest in the establishment of the juvenile court in Atlanta. All members of the

Cordele Social News

On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Ruth Benedict was the cordial hostess to the members of the Audette Hook club. She was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. G. C. Benedict and Mrs. P. A. Colquitt.

Mrs. Loan Brown entertained the members of the Symphony club on Saturday afternoon.

The Fortnightly Bridge club was entertained on Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Thomas Keshitt in honor of her sister, Miss Annie Kate Fletcher, of Forsyth. Besides the club members Mrs. Jones had several young ladies. Mrs. C. Z. McMillan entertained formally at tea on Wednesday evening. She was assisted by Mrs. Anahy Coghors and Miss Emily Hyde.

China Sea Grass Furniture Attractively Priced

We are showing a really remarkable assortment of China Sea Grass Furniture, and it has met with popular approval among the home-makers of Atlanta. The frame of this furniture is made of bamboo, sturdily braced with rattan, and the entire frame is covered with the closely woven strands of China Sea Grass. It is attractive, is durable, and there is no more comfortable furniture made. It is substantial enough for outdoor use, being affected by neither sun nor rain, and can be used to equal advantage indoors. Its color is a neutral tint, and harmonizes perfectly with other furnishings. We advise you to make your selections early, for when our present stock is sold we will not be able to duplicate it, on account of conditions brought about by the war.

This furniture is sold in complete suits, or you may pick any odd piece you like. The chairs and rockers range in price from $6.50 to $9.50, the tables from $8.50 to $10, the swings from $17.50 to $20, the settees are priced $12.50, and the couches $12.50. We call your special attention to the pieces illustrated below, and to the remarkably low prices at which we are offering them. These prices are fully one-fourth less than the regular prices at which this furniture is usually sold. This is made possible because of the fact that we sell more of this artistic furniture, perhaps, than all the other stores of Atlanta combined.

THE HYGIENIC REFRIGERATOR

We are calling special attention to this refrigerator, because we know absolutely that it is all we claim for it. The Hygienic Refrigerator has removable trays, leaving no lurking places for germs and rendering cleaning easy and rapid. It has patent interior drip traps, which, with the drain pipes, are easily removed. All the shelves are retined woven wire, and the hardware is of cast brass.

The following reductions are actual cuts in prices:

$22.50 Refrigerators, $18.50
$27.50 Refrigerators, $17.50
$30.00 Refrigerators, $17.50
$35.00 Refrigerators, $20.00
$42.50 Refrigerators, $25.00

FOR THE SLEEPING PORCH

We have a full line of sleeping porch furniture, such as folding cots, couches, bungalow beds—all in the different styles and at all prices. Our stock is complete, and every piece is built to stand outdoor wear. You must see this line to appreciate the comfort it holds.

White enamel Medicine Cabinet, with large mirror in door. Regular price $2.00. Specially priced 98c

OUR TERMS ARE VERY LIBERAL

Our terms are very liberal indeed—probably more liberal than any other house in Atlanta. We pay special attention to mail orders and ship on approval, paying charges both ways if goods do not come up to expectations. And we are in position to furnish homes complete, in addition to our large stock of furniture, we carry floor coverings, draperies, portieres, etc.

Regular $2.50 value, for 98c

20% Reductions on Baby Carriages

We are overstocked with Baby Carriages, and for that reason are going to make a 20% reduction on every carriage in the house. This includes both the carriages with wood bodies and those with woven reed bodies. There is no danger in your not being able to select the particular one you have set your heart on setting, for our stock is large and the assortment varied enough for anyone to choose from. The prices range from

On Monday night, May 17, Dr. Myers will lecture for the benefit of the Tabernacle Dormitory, a Christian home for working girls. His subject will be "The New Woman and the Old Man."

Admission 5c and 10c.

News of Women and Society

Writers' Club

The regular meeting of the Atlanta Writers' club was held Monday, May 10, at the University club, the president, Mr. Parkhurst, presiding.

Mr. Parkhurst presented to the University club on behalf of the Writers' club, the History of the Southeastern Tariff association written by Colonel Thomas Peters. Mr. William G. Brantley Jr., a member of the University club, accepted the book for the University club library.

Mr. James MacKnight read a poem, "The Cry of Hungary," written in 1850, by Dr. Thomas Holly Chivers, the southern poet whose works the Atlanta Writers' club is now publishing.

Mr. Milton McGovern, gave the treasurer's report and a suggestion to raise the dues by Miss Mary Brent Whitehead was adopted.

Mrs. Patterson, secretary, gave a brief resume of the club's work for the first year.

Following officers for the year were nominated and elected: Mrs. Thomas Peters, honorary president; Mr. W. F. Parkhurst, president; Mrs. J. G. Parnell, vice president; Mr. Milton McGovern, treasurer and Mrs. R. C. Patterson, secretary.

After speeches by the honorable president and the other officers, the president appointed a committee to draw up a constitution and by-laws, and report at the following meeting.

The president appointed a committee to outline a plan of work for the year and report at the next meeting. This committee consisted of Miss Whitehead, chairman; Mr. Hilmyer, Prof. Gerard-Thiers, Mrs. Blackburn, Miss Estlin, Miss Yolmer.

Mr. Hilmyer, Mr. MacKnight, Prof. Gerard-Thiers and others then gave short and interesting talks.

Commencement Exercises
One of the most attractive commencement of the season will be the benefit commencement to be given by Miss Hanna's school, in the interests of the Mineral Bluff Industrial school for mountain girls, Friday, May 28, at the Atlanta theater.

The senior class will produce Goldsmith's beautiful comedy, "She Stoops to Conquer," with the following cast: Mrs. Hardcastle, Miss Cecil Harwell; Mr. Hardcastle, Miss Lenor Lewis; Miss Harcastle, Miss Mary Halston; Miss Neville, Miss Ruby Martin; Mr. Hastings, Miss Luella Jordan; Tony Lumpkin, Miss Willie Belle Key; Landlord, Miss Inez Rudelsill; Sir Charles Marlow, Miss Nell Morris; Mauds, Miss Ruth Breck and Miss Mary Padgett.

The school is well known for its beautiful commencement exercises, the net proceeds of which are always given to charity. Its present beneficiary, the Mineral Bluff Industrial school for mountain girls, is doing a beautiful and much needed work in the mountains of North Georgia, preparing girls to become useful and self supporting citizens.

Tickets are on sale at the school and at the home of the president of the Mineral Bluff school, Mrs. Lazarus, 52 Williams street.

Auxiliary Entertained
Mrs. George Suratt entertained the members of her auxiliary and a few invited guests Thursday afternoon at her home in Inman Park.

This was the third of the fiscal year and new officers were elected.

Yellow and white flowers filled baskets artistically placed about the rooms and the ices, cakes and other details were of yellow and white.

Mrs. Paul Cooper assisted in entertaining.

The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. M. A. Moreland.

RECENT HAPPENINGS IN GEN'L FEDERATION WOMAN'S CLUBS

Mrs. Henry M. Flagler has given Florida club women 1,000 acres of land containing the only forest of royal palms in the country. The club women will care for the palms and open the tract to the public as a state park. This is said to be the first state park owned and controlled by club women.

Mrs. Anna J. H. Pomybucker, president of the General Federation, started westward from Morristown, visiting the exposition at San Diego, speaking at the California federation and also call at the great Panama-Pacific exposition. From there she will go to Portland where the mid-biennial council of the General Federation is to open on May 31. On the adjournment of the council, Mrs. Pomybucker expects to speak at state federations or special meetings in Washington, Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Nevada and Alaska.

Baraca-Philathea Union
The Baraca-Philathea City union will meet Tuesday evening at the Second Baptist church. Interesting talks of the work and the home given by Mrs. O. T. Peoples, second vice president, Mrs. Ila B. Lee, retiring president, Mrs. William D. Upton, Mrs. Walter Sheets and Mr. Gordon Singleton. Supper will be served at 6:30 o'clock.

Election of Officers
CARTERSVILLE.—The Cherokee club held its annual election of officers Thursday afternoon. The following were elected unanimously: President, Mrs. O. T. Peoples; first vice president, Mrs. Ila B. Lee; second vice president, Mrs. L. B. Womack; secretary, Mrs. J. N. Verne; and treasurer, Mrs. Garnett Greene.

Organ Recital
The final and closing concert of a series of organ recitals, which have been given in Atlanta during the winter season under the auspices of the Georgia chapter of the American Guild of Organists, will be held at the auditorium Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock. Dr. Edwin Arthur Craft, city organist of Atlanta, will be the presiding artist on this occasion.

Summer Classes at Y. W. C. A.
During the summer season the gymnasium room of the Y. W. C. A. will be utilized for the teaching of domestic arts and science. Full announcements will be made later and classes will open early in June. Lessons in music will be offered during the vacation season of the association. The board has been fortunate in securing the services of a competent and experienced instructor who offers to give class lessons for children and business women at reduced rates during the summer.

This is an unusual opportunity for mothers who want first-class instruction for their children to get it at small cost. The method and rates will be explained to any one interested by the secretary of the Y. W. C. A.

Virginia club women held their annual convention at Fairfax Court House from May 12 to 15. Mrs. M. M. Caldwell, the retiring president, urges that a special effort be made to interest young women in club work and that more publicity be given to the work which clubs do for public welfare.

Travelers Aid Work
There was a good attendance at the recent meeting of the Atlanta Woman's Missionary association, which has charge of the travelers aid work, and interesting reports from the matrons at the railroad stations were given, showing that in the month of April more than 500 persons received help of some kind. Employment was found for eleven, it was necessary to send ten to the hospital, ninety were directed to boarding places, and coffee and lunches supplied to many who would otherwise have gone hungry.

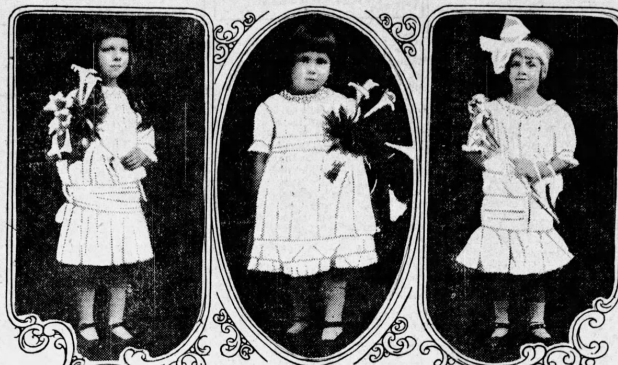

The semi-annual meeting was held in the Congregational church on the 16th of April, at which time Dr. Harris, of Wesley Memorial church, gave an interesting address. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin, president; Mrs. R. M. Williams, first vice president; Mrs. J. W. Stephens, second vice president; Mrs. R. O. Kern, recording secretary; Mrs. D. L. Carson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. E. Mansfield, treasurer; Mrs. J. S. Thompson, auditor.

Meetings are held regularly on the second Wednesday of each month at the Central Congregational church at 10 o'clock, and all ladies are cordially invited to attend.

Donations from churches, clubs or individuals are gladly received.

Afternoon Tea
Prof. and Mrs. Ferdinand Ruge gave a tea during the past week to the teachers of the grammar and high schools of Decatur. Those present were Mrs. Thomas N. Fulton, Miss Mamie Barnes, Miss Louise Manes, Miss Katie Selman, Miss Grace Titman and Miss Rachel Young. Miss Julia Goodall, of Macon, delighted the guests with a beautiful vocal selection. Mr. Ruge sang a duet with Miss Goodall and played the Largo of Beethoven's sonata, opus 10, to the accompaniment of Miss Titman's reading of a poem by Shelley.

SENSATIONAL DOLLAR SALE!

During last May we held the first sensational Dollar Sale ever held by a furniture store in Atlanta, so far as we know. The tremendous success of this sale and the substantial approval it met with from our patrons induced us to plan a Dollar Sale each May. Accordingly, we have gathered from our various departments odds and ends of every description—goods that have sold anywhere from One Dollar and a Half to Three Dollars and a Half to Five Dollars, and a number of pieces as much as Ten Dollars and Fifteen Dollars.

Odd pieces, it is true, and a few of these pieces are the least bit shopworn, but any of them is worth anywhere from two to five times the price of One Dollar.

This sale will start promptly at 8 o'clock.

We are sure that these values represent more for One Dollar than it is possible to ever buy for this amount before.

We are listing below a few items at random. There will be a great number of odds and ends not mentioned in this list.

SUFFRAGE SCHOOL WILL TEACH WOMEN POLITICS

Practical Instruction Will Be Given in How to Vote When Suffrage Is Secured

In order to teach the women of the city how to vote in the event Georgia grants equal suffrage, the Georgia Suffrage Party of Georgia will open a suffrage school in Atlanta the first week in June. A short course in practical politics for the education of the coming voter will be given in a series of lessons extending over a period of three weeks. Two classes will be held each week, but, owing to the limited time, the lessons will be of a very elementary nature.

The topics to be taken up are as follows: City Government and Taxation; Suffrage and Election; The State Government, Legislative, Executive, and Judicial; Duties and Rights of Citizens; How the People of the United States are Governed; Educational Systems and Charitable and Penal Institutions.

Miss Aurelia Roach, assisted by Miss Sarah Converse and Miss Ida Nelson, will give the lectures.

Admission to the lessons, which will be given in the room of the Piedmont hotel on Mondays and Thursdays, between 10 and 11 o'clock, will be free, and everyone who is interested is invited to attend.

The postponement of the one-act play, "How the Vote was Won," which was to have been given Tuesday evening by the suffragists, has resulted in an enlargement of the program, which will make the event doubly interesting. A series of tableaux vivants, in which some of Atlanta's prettiest women will pose, will be given at the close of the play, and Miss Converse will be in charge.

Atlanta suffragists will be interested in a letter recently received from Mrs. C. P. Ellington, president of the Arkansas Political Equality association, in which she states that the Arkansas Federation of Women's clubs has enthusiastically endorsed equal suffrage.

Mrs. Ellington is pleasantly known in Atlanta, having been entertained here a short while ago.

At the meeting of the Ninth Ward White League club Wednesday afternoon, Miss Eleanor Raulo gave a report on her recent tour of organization through the state. She visited Augusta, Conyers, Honeville and other towns, and was most successful in establishing branches of the state party in several new places.

At Honeville a club of twelve members was established, all of whom are women. J. J. Matthews was elected chairman; C. S. Smith, vice chairman; J. A. Adams, secretary and treasurer; and C. Ross Wall, press agent. They have already begun work collecting signatures to the mammoth petition which will be presented to the legislature asking that equal suffrage amendment be submitted to the people of the state.

On May 15 the Fulton and DeKalb branch of the state party will again make a canvass of several wards of the city to secure additional signatures, 15,000 names having been set as the minimum for these counties.

All canvassers are requested to meet at headquarters at 4:30 o'clock Saturday.

Interesting statistics recently collected by the state party show that there are 194,627 more white women in the south than the entire negro population, and that there are 110,590 more white women in Georgia than negro women.

The information was secured from the United States census of 1914.

Fifty thousand dollars has been contributed to the equal suffrage campaign fund of New York state. The subscriptions were announced at the big suffrage luncheon which was given Saturday, May 8, by the Empire state campaign committee at the Hotel Astor.

Fourteen hundred guests were present among them being Mrs. Whitman, wife of the governor.

Miss Howard Shaw, whose recent lecture in Atlanta aroused so much interest, was one of the speakers, and Mrs. Chapman Catt and many other leading suffragists took part in the program.

Our Adaptations of Useful Embroidery Patterns

Today's illustration is a distinctive embroidered design for night gown or corset cover. It may be copied from this paper thus: If your material is sheer the simplest method is to lay the material over the design below and with a sharply pointed pencil draw over each line. If the material is heavy, secure from any stationery store a piece of carbon impression paper. Lay it face down on the design below, then draw over each line of the paper design with a hard pencil or the point of a steel knitting needle.

The above free design—together with over four hundred other embroidery and initial patterns for every conceivable purpose—may also be had at the office of this newspaper in the form of the Innovation Set of beautiful embroidery transfer patterns, each one of the 400 new designs capable of being transferred six times in fifteen minutes—no hot iron required—for 65c., or 75c. by mail. These individual designs, if purchased separately, would exceed $10 in cost.

ENTIRELY FREE—With this package of over 400 transfer patterns we also present to you entirely free one set (valued at 40c.) of everything required for successful embroidery, consisting of two six-inch embroidery hoops, one package of all-purpose embroidery needles, one stiletto, one bodkin, and Embroidery Instructor containing illustrations and directions for all the newest as well as the standard stitches. Money back instantly if not satisfied. Call on or address Embroidery Dept., Atlanta Journal.

Kauff Suffering From Flattery By His Admirers

Chicago Sport Scribe Charges That Federal League Star Is Having Trouble in Making His Hat Fit Since He Proved Sensation of New League

Benny Kauff, the Brooklyn Federal league player, the TV CGB of the Federal league, who threw a monkey wrench into the machinery of baseball by leading to the giants, is one of the greatest youngsters of the game, writes Old Timer in the Chicago Post. He developed last year at a rate that astonished the country and proved the biggest drawing card of the new league, his hitting, base running and fielding proving the biggest sensation of the season.

"He is a country lad and jumped into Indianapolis with the American association team after a brief season in the smaller leagues. Oddly enough, the American association teams did not consider him a great ball player. He hit viciously and was regarded as a poor fielder and a worse base runner. He held his job with the association study on his ability to hit."

Manager Hendrix, of the Indianapolis association club, when he bought the team from McDill of Denver, considered Kauff one of the biggest assets that they received. He rejoiced that the major leagues appeared to have overlooked him and figured that Kauff's hitting would be of great assistance in his new club.

Kauff was also noticed by the Federal league organizers. They went after him and he proceeded to jump from the Indianapolis association to the Indianapolis Federal team, and, being a native son down there, he proved a great drawing card.

He promptly "swelled." Two major league scouts who had looked him over and reported unfavorably upon his ability to play the game, were after him last year, but he was tied up in a straight three-year contract to play ball with the Federal.

"Last winter Kauff spent in a jolly way. The 'friends' who flock around a successful ball player flocked and bought, and told Kauff how good he was. Evidently the praise and flattery went to his head, for he started

SOFT SNAP STUFF DOES NOT APPEAL TO SENOR MARSANS

ST. LOUIS, May 15.—If your daily allowance was $42.20, and your office hours from 10 to 11 a. m., no boss and nothing to do but bat a ball around the diamond, would you be a perturbed soul? Would you be awake at night and stare into the blackness trying to see what the future held for you?

Think it over again, boys! Office hours from 10 to 11 a. m., no boss, daily allowance $42.20, no sleep!

Think of the number of bobs one could carry to the third floor between 8 a. m. and 4 p. m. on a union job for $4 a day. Think of all the soup $42.20 would buy. How much popcorn it would supply at a grammar school picnic! And how many nickel beers! Perish the thought, and pity the poor soul who draws that much daily and can't close an eye at night for worry.

Don't doubt but there is such a man, for he lives and is none other than Armando Candido Marsans, now enmeshed in the legal tangle which spans the gap between organized and outlaw baseball. Marsans jumped the Cincinnati team last year and played seven games with the Terriers before they served an injunction suit on him. Since then he has been what fandom knows as a bench warmer. He has polished the bench at the rate of $6.00 a season, now in his second year.

His duties at this date consist in reporting at Fed Park while Fielder Jones is away and working from 10 to 11, sometimes alone, sometimes with a few grass-eaters. He does this to keep in shape. He'll have to do it for 184 days during which time he earns his princely salary of $4,600. But is he happy?

Never. "I no like this business," said he yesterday at Fed Park. "I didn't jump for money. Once that fellow Madison, of Kansas City, come to me in Cincinnati and say: Marsans, I give you these seven $1000 bills to jump. I get $4,200 then; but I say no, I won't jump."

Herrmann, he like me like the fans do, too. But Herrero, he keep after my work. One day he say, Marsans, you laying down. I can't stand that. So I quit. I came here and get less money than Kansas City pay, but I be fair with these people and they treat me fine. Ball, he's fine fellow. So is Stifel, too. I hate to take their money and no play."

"The other day I go to Ball and say, 'I'm tired of taking your money. Let me join Cardinals and I come back if Bode says so. I want to play ball. But Ball he say, 'I'm no kicking about your money, am I? so what am I gonna do? I stay here and do nothing. I guess, because I can't leave square fellows like these. I like to go back now to the Reds and play ball, even after what Herrero said, because I like baseball first, but never will I quit these people. They're too square. I no sleep at night. Just think and think. I say to myself, what if Feds lose and nobody wants me? It worries me when I think I might not play ball never again. Sometimes I get sick."

There is something to be said in that connection. Practically every baseball player in the country wants to play with the New York giants—it is the big time of the baseball world. The flattery and press agenting work is more copious than it is anywhere else. Charles Ebbetts, of the Brooklyn Nationals has complained for years that John McGraw regularly disrupts and causes dissension in the Brooklyn club by trying to tempt players to come to him and by purposely making them dissatisfied.

Brooklyn is regarded as the end of the earth by ball players. When Kauff was in Indianapolis and the hero of the entire city was comparatively easy to handle, but in Brooklyn it was different. McGraw managed to breed discontent.

"Coupled with that, Kauff had suffered from enlarged ego, and this combined with a young, hot-headed and fiery manager, caused more trouble. It looks as if one of the few great young players in the game has hurt his career right at the start. He registers at merely one more victim of flattery and foolish friends."

Rickard Through With Fight Game

CHICAGO, May 15.—Hereafter it's "Tex" Rickard, the business man, and not "Tex" Rickard, the fighting impresario.

In no many words the man who promotes to look after his cattle interests in South America. He has promoted fights enough. "I have promoted fights enough," Rickard said. "In the right game a promoter must take chances, but I do not intend to take the risks I did when the Johnson-Jeffries fight was staged. "The expense of staging a big fight is so heavy that I never again will make an effort to bring two topnotchers together. I am through with the game forever."

Wins Test Over 40 Cars

Result of the great Yale University Sheffield Scientific School Test. Of the forty automobiles tested at the famous Sheffield Scientific School laboratory the Maxwell stands first in economy of gasoline consumption.

NEW HAVEN, CONNECTICUT
May 1st 1915.

The Biewer Motor Car Company, 1075 Chapel Street,
New Haven, Conn.

Gentlemen:-

I am enclosing report of test of your Maxwell automobile recently made in our laboratory.

1. RELIABILITY OF TEST.

A preliminary test was made on April 19th, using a new car which was rather stiff. The showing was so good that we decided to make a second test. This was made on April 26th, using same car. On this test, the car showed less stiffness and the performance was better than on the first car. The second test was supervised by our most careful experts, and the results, I believe to be perfectly reliable.

2. MILEAGE.

The efficiency of the Maxwell automobile as indicated by the number of miles on a level road, is exceptionally high. This mileage record is better than that of any one of forty automobiles tested in our laboratory to date.

3. MOTOR PERFORMANCE.

The efficiency of the motor and carburetor as indicated by the pounds of gasoline used per hour per horse-power at rear tires, is exceedingly good, and indicates very perfect carburetor action over the whole range of speed and load. This record, like that on mileage per gallon, is the best one that we have had.

Very truly yours,

E. H. Lockwood

The Car it Paid to wait for

Chalmers New Six $1400

WE have been very impatient for 18 months.

All around us dealers were selling hundreds of cars ranging in price from $1000 to $1500.

We knew that the Chalmers people were making a car in this class. We knew it would be good when we got it.

But to our impatient inquiries we got one answer, "We haven't tested it hard enough yet."

Now it is here.

The Chalmers people say it has simply been abused over in the Allegheny Mountains for 18 months and stood the racket.

Hence they know what they are offering. It is the lowest price ($1400) at which a Chalmers car has ever been sold.

Yet it has all the Chalmers quality, and owing to new plans of construction, a distinctly different appearance from any other motor car.

It gets away quicker than any car we've ever seen except a racer. It rides like a Pullman. It is a "thoroughbred."

We feel that it paid to wait for it.

Come in and see if you don't think so too.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

Half Output of Overlands Goes To the Farmers

President Willys Tells of Pleasure to Rural Resident, Which an Auto Gives—A Welcome Relief From Life of Monotony

The motor car has furnished a welcome relief from the monotony of life which was long the lot of the average farmer.

It is the big need for relaxation and pleasure that the automobile has filled for the farmer. This point is made plain by John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland company, which sells more than half of its entire output to residents of rural communities. To the farmer a car is far more than a mere luxury. It is a vital necessity to him and his family. It offers a welcome relief. It makes him a better worker by giving him recreation and pleasure he could not otherwise have. Its broadening mental effect is one of its greatest benefits to him.

Once the farmer has an automobile he soon finds himself looking forward to summer evening rides with his family with the cool breeze blowing away the fever heat of the day's work in the fields. He finds himself able to go on pleasure trips, to picnic and so on, with his wife and children, which hitherto he was unable to enjoy because of the distance to be covered in the time of his disposal. Many a man has reported that he doesn't feel the hard work of harvest time as much as he did before his car gave him the needed relaxation.

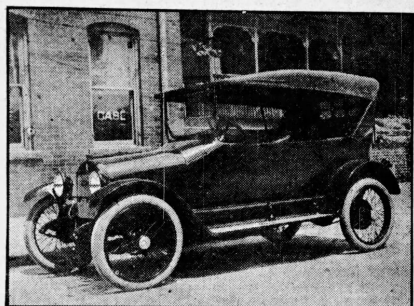

A man can't get the same rest and relaxation out of a horse. In the first place, there is no relief for a farmer in driving a horse. In the second place, the chances are he is sorry for the brute. If a man has any sympathy and feeling for animals, he knows that they must have rest over night and on Sundays. A horse is too slow and the distance he can cover is too small for anyone really to get any great amount of recreation from an evening's drive. At the same time, an automobile costs money only when in actual use, unlike the horse which is a constant expense.

When the church, the school and the garage flourish, the opportunities for recreation and social betterment are naturally multiplied. In enabling the farmer to make the most of these institutions, the automobile helps to support and develop them and also renders its owner more available service.

"This influence of the automobile is only natural. When a man shuts himself off from his neighbors and sees very little of them, he soon loses interest in them or what they are doing. He gets so little that he cares very little about anything but what is taking place in his little sphere. He builds about himself, as it were, a Chinese wall of indifference.

"Another argument for the car on the

NEW MODEL CASE

The appearance in Atlanta of the new 1915 Case caused wide comment among motor car circles. The new car is a beauty in the way of design, and carries all the latest devices and appliances in the line of mechanical improvement.

King Dealer Likes Outlook

In 1914 the first motor car appeared on the streets of Detroit. This car was a King, and was the first motor vehicle to be operated in what is now the motor car capital of the world. The King was also the first car in America to use the in-bloc motor center control and cantilever springs, and the King company was the first builder in the world to market a popular-priced eight-cylinder model, says C. S. Thompson who has just opened a King agency here.

Both actually and for the power generated the Eight is higher than the Six. The King Eight's power plant weighs practically the same as that of the King Four. Lighter pistons, connecting rods, valves, etc., not only make for perfect smoothness of operation and absence of vibration, but year longer because of their lightness, and make the motor more effective because less power is required for their operation. The crank case of an Eight is much lighter than that of a Six, being 20 per cent shorter.

farm lies in the fact that while in the city the working unit is generally only the head of the family on the farm all hands turn in and help. There is work for young and old.

Maxwell Shows Power in Test

Another of the stunts that have been performed by the Maxwell touring cars in the hands of the special crew from the Maxwell factory at Detroit, caused considerable interest at the West Baker street hill Saturday afternoon.

Promptly at 4 o'clock, as advertised, the Dabney implement company's demonstrator drove up to the foot of the hill with fourteen men in the car, weighing 2,541 pounds. This with the weight of the car, made a total of 4,081 pounds, and to the surprise of many in the crowd who had read the ads in The Journal, and had taken the trouble to be on the spot, the little Maxwell moved off smoothly and strongly up the hill.

In the middle of the hill, the driver stopped the car long enough to show the strength of the foot brakes, and after a momentary pause, again engaged the gears and went over the top of the hill at a speed of about fourteen miles per hour. This was one of the many spectacular exhibitions that have been arranged by the Maxwell and Dabney companies to prove to Atlanta people that this car is all that is claimed for it.

On Monday night this same car will

Thermo-Syphon Best for Eights

Briggs Speaks of Advantages of This System of Cooling New Type Motor

To the lay mind, the fact that the surfaces to be cooled in an eight cylinder motor are so much greater than in the four or six, would seem to present a problem in cooling systems that would be difficult of solution.

"As a matter of fact, an eight-cylinder motor is most efficiently cooled by the simplest of systems, that of thermo-syphon, which we have adopted after a careful series of tests," says Claude S. Briggs, president of the Briggs-Detroit company, of Detroit, Mich. We found that pump circulation did not cool the two cylinder blocks as well as would have to be placed on one side by due to the fact that a single pump for the other of the motor, and the block farthest from the pump would be several degrees hotter than the other. Efficient forced circulation would require two pumps, which would not only add to the expense of construction, but consume a share of the power, besides becoming a source of noise and trouble.

"The thermo-syphon system we found to cool the two cylinder blocks evenly under all conditions, by reason of a large water capacity and exceptionally large cooling surfaces in the radiator. Supplementing this is a four-blade aluminum fan drawing air through the radiator with sufficient force to cause a piece of heavy cardboard six inches square to adhere to the radiator surface from the fan suction.

"Tests made with a Detroit 'eight' under every conceivable condition to be encountered in driving, have demonstrated the efficiency of the Detroit thermo-syphon system and proved groundless the belief of some motorists that a difficult problem had yet to be overcome."

—inch by inch Studebaker proves its superiority

And it's SUPERIORITY that you can see for yourself—with your own eyes, if you'll just take the opportunity to go over the Studebaker chassis in detail.

Some manufacturers, you know, who make both a Four and a Six, put the GOOD design into the more expensive SIX. But you take this Studebaker FOUR and stand it side by side with any other car, and study it just on QUALITY. And inch by inch, note the Studebaker superiorities.

First of all, look at that Studebaker-Wagner Electric System. Simple—light—balanced almost to the ounce—every little detail of the whole system EASY to get at. Has been used on 100,000 Studebakers with undaunted success.

And then, note how simply and cleanly that Studebaker Motor is built—and how ACCESSIBLE it is. Carburetor sits high on side of the motor. Valves are easily gotten at. And you can make any inspection or adjustment simply by raising the hood. Built to develop plenty of POWER, too—but to make every last drop of gasoline pull.

And just in passing, look at the Studebaker Steering Gear. Irreversible type, you know, that keeps the road-shocks away from the steering-wheel and makes driving EASIER—and safer. Adjustable for wear, too. Many cars use the old, reversible type that costs less.

Then, note that simple Studebaker Clutch. It's a cone clutch, you know—leaf-faced, SOFT-gripping. No jerking when you throw it in. And it's so easy to get at for inspection or oiling.

Then, note that ALL the wiring is enclosed in flexible steel conduits that protect them from moisture and oil and grease and damage from tools. Makes wiring trouble-proof.

Observe the Willard Storage Battery that Studebaker uses. Best that's made—3-cell type. Placed so as to be EASY to see and get at for filling. That's Studebaker attention to details.

And that Studebaker Brake Equalizer—that's mighty important. Many cars omit it—too costly. But it makes the cars SAFER—stops skidding—saves tires. And the only other one like this is on a $5,000 car.

Notice, too, that the transmission is in unit with the Rear Axle. Increases the manufacturing cost—but insures perfect alignment, smoothes any vibration of the gears and gets more even distribution of weight. Makes the whole car ride and drive more easily.

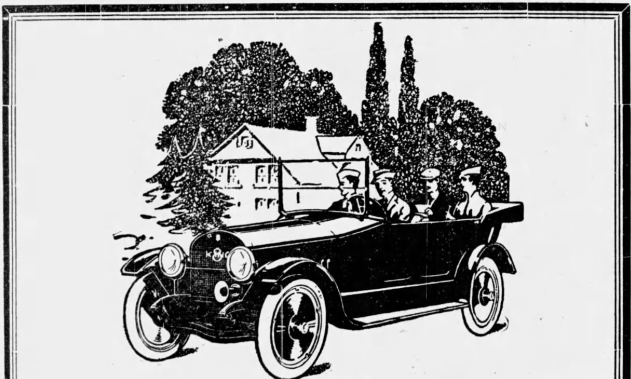

And note that Studebaker uses TWO radius rods and a torque arm. Many cars drive thro' the springs. But that necessitates stiffer springs. Makes the car HARD-riding. While the TWO radius rods and the torque arm that Studebaker uses leaves the springs free just for smothering the jolts and jars. Makes the car marvelously EASY-riding.

And then, of course, that FULL-floating Rear Axle will interest you. For, with one exception, every other FOUR uses the earlier type. But Studebaker uses this FULL-floating axle even tho' it's more costly, because it's so much SAFER and easier to get at. Carries the weight of the car on the axle housing and has TWO Tinkens Bearings in each hub to take up the side-thrusts. Axle shaft only has ONE duty—to turn the wheels. Shaft can be removed, too, in less than two minutes. Note, too, that axle housing. Other cars use malleable castings—THIS is a much stronger and much LIGHTER steel stamping with folded edges.

And so you can go over this Studebaker inch by inch and find scores of SUPERIORITIES. For Studebaker has built this FOUR to live up to the PROMISE of that name of Studebaker. Every last detail has to represent the latest achievement in engineering and the highest quality in manufacturing. We don't want you to buy the car unless you are satisfied that it does, too. But WE KNOW that when you stand it side by side with any other car, you'll find that just on merit it's a better buy. And it costs you from $90 to $225 less at the start—and less right along in upkeep. Set it today.

40-45 HORSE-POWER

Out-Performs All Other Types

The extraordinary success of this super-car can only be understood by a ride behind its engine

A believable description of the King "Eight" in action defies even "advertising" English. It is a performance that must be "felt"—and equaled in.

The superior flexibility of an "eight" is beyond argument or dispute. It is an immutable mechanical fact that an "eight" has one power impulse for every 90 degrees of crank rotation, as against the 120 degrees of a "six" and the 180 of a "four."

This almost "turbine" smoothness of operation means MORE than the mere avoidance of gear-changing for practically all speeds and grades: It reduces vibration to nearly nil, which in turn results in silence and longevity and adds to riding comfort.

Notwithstanding its greater number of cylinders and 40-45 horse-power, the King "Eight" gives 15 to 20 miles to a gallon of gasoline, and 800 to 1,000 miles to a measure of motor oil. Thus, low operating cost is added to the car's other virtues.

The King "Eight" is NOT an experiment, but the same successful type of car made by celebrated European builders for the past six years. It is King designed and King manufactured and has many hundreds of miles of gruelling road tests behind it. Enthusiastic owners all over America, and in many countries of Europe, are making King sales by praise of this wonderful "eight."

What you may NOW expect from a motor car is taught by a King "Eight" demonstration. There's a King agent in your locality.

this jurisdiction which takes place in the north Georgia city May 20-21.

Gainesville council No. 416, who will be hosts for the gathering, have arranged a splendid program of entertainment for the visitors. The program will include the opening session on Thursday morning May 20, at which addresses of welcome and responses will be made; an automobile ride for the ladies at 2 o'clock, Thursday afternoon; a ball game at Riverside Military academy park at 6 o'clock; the Bagdad parade at 6 o'clock and at the Bagdad initiation at the U. C. T. lodge room. On Thursday night the visitors will be tendered a Japanese the local councils: U. C. Cox and W. A.

Webb of Atlanta Council No. 10; W. R.
Moore and H. R. Arnold of Fulton Council No. 265. In addition to these representatives, however, a large delegation of U. C. T. S. will attend the meeting to be present at all the business sessions and to take part in the social doings that have been planned.

The following are the heads of the various committees of the Gainesville Coun-

A TICKET TO A BIG TIME

Committee Praised For Way It Handled Grocers' Convention

The local committee of arrangement and entertainment which did so much to make the convention of the Southern Wholesale Grocers the big success that Springs, Mr. Singer looked after the man, W. O. Stamps, H. L. Singer, C. B.
Ponder and J. A. Campbell. They received great praise for their efforts.

Mr. Stamps had particular charge of the delightful barbecue given at Cold Springs. Mr. Singer, who after the enjoyable dinner that was held at the Piedmont hotel, Mr. Campbell assisted by a committee of ladies headed by Mrs.
E. L. Adams, took care of the visiting ladies and looked after their comfort and entertainment. E. L. Adams had general charge and supervision of the entire convention arrangement. Mr. Ponder looked after the registration and reception of the visitors.

MAIL ORDERS UNUSUAL AT RAGAN-MALONE CO'S

"Order have been coming in in a most satisfactory manner," both from our travelers and by mail," said W. C. Bar-well of Ragan-Malone company. "The mail orders are really unusual for this time of the year. We have been doing a very active business on ladies and men's Palm Beach suits. In our notions department, April showed an increase of April a year ago, and from present indications May will show a similar increase."

RICE & HUTCHINS HAVE PRETTY DISPLAY WINDOW

The Rice & Hutchins Atlanta company have placed a display of their new style of shoes in the window of their building on South Pryor street. It is in the intention of the firm to keep new styles on exhibition so that they may be seen by the public and by the visiting trade. The sign which accompanies the shoes reads: "For sale at leading mail stores in Atlanta and throughout the world."

GROCERS' REGISTRARS GIVEN COMMENDATION

The thanks of all the members and visitors attending the Southern Wholesale Grocers' convention were showered upon H. M. Lee and C. B. Ponder, Jr., who composed the committees having charge of the registration of the visitors for the occasion. These four gentlemen were a five-man and looked after the wants of all the visitors with promptness and courtesy and did much toward making the big event a success.

QUARLES, NOW MANAGER OF HIGH'S GROCERY DEPT

Popular City Salesman Gets Big Place With Big Department Store

W. A. Quarles, one of the most widely known and most popular city salesmen of Atlanta is now head of the grocery department of the J. M. High company.
Mr. Quarles began the duties of his new position on last Saturday.

For the past five years Mr. Quarles has been city salesman for Palm & Stamps and previous to that he was with Kelley Brothers company for two years. Before coming to Atlanta he was in the retail grocery business in Rome, Ga., for seventeen years. He has thus been connected continuously in the grocery business for twenty-four years and therefore knows the ins and outs of it as thoroughly as any man in the state. His friends throughout the city and state congratulate him upon the advancement he has received, and predict for him a splendid success in his new position.

"Mr. Quarles was certainly one of the ablest men in the city trade," said W.
O. Stamps, in commenting upon Mr.
Quarles' ability. "His memory for prices and articles was positively phenomenal.
He rarely ever needed to refer to a price list. He will not doubt make a great success in his new position and he has our heartiest good wishes."

WILDER MAKES PURCHASE OF AUTO RABOUBT

D. R. Wilder, of the Wilder Manufacturing company, is now on the list of travelers and business men who have adopted the automobile as a means for making business calls. Mr. Wilder has purchased a Maxwell touring car and thinks that he finds the press of business duties so great that he has had to utilize the machine in shortening the hours devoted to making business visits.

New School Supplies

Our 1915 line of Tablets and Box Papers is ready to take orders. Please write at once for the 400.00, plus freight, from factory. It is an agricultural factor that is selling. Write at once to the Georgia and Florida representatives.

ATLANTA.

The Bull Tractor Agency Is a Money Maker
The territory is now half taken. Some dealers are already buying in our load quantities.
Small size $100.00, large size $200.00, plus freight, from factory. It is an agricultural factor that is selling. Write at once to the

Montag Gets Toy Shipment Direct From Germany

Montag Brothers have received fifty cases of toys and dolls direct from Germany. The order was given for the toys previous to March 1 of this year and therefore they were permitted to reach the United States by the English government. The shipment, which arrived from Rotterdam, Holland, arrived in New York week before last and in Atlanta last week.

ALL KISER TRAVELERS RUNNING NECK AND NECK

Have Good Fall Trade as Well as Active Fill in Business

All the travelers of the M. C. Kiser company are out upon the road and all of them—twenty-three in number—are sending in good orders. "All our travelers are doing splendid work," said C. Sullivan, of this company. "They are all running neck and neck in volume of sales. They are booking a number of the fall orders and are likewise doing an active fill-in trade. Our business continues to be most satisfactory."

B. P. & G. CO. GIVING AND GETTING ORDERS BY WIRE

"We have had a very active week's trade," said R. A. Perryman, of Brown, Perryman & Greene company. "In fact we have been both receiving orders and giving orders by wire during the past week. The volume of business is doing the manner in which our trade has been a large direct transaction in the past few days. This indicates that the demand for goods just now is large and persistent, and that the merchants are buying conservatively and buying often."

GROGERS' CONVENTION HERE WAS BEST FOR PAST SIX YEARS

President J. H. McLaurin Enthusiastic Over Success of Atlanta Gathering--Many New Members Secured

E. L. ADAMS CHOSEN
FIRST VICE PRESIDENT

Business Was Keynote of Convention--Fine Spirit of Optimism Prevailed--4 Cities
After Next Meeting

The delegates and visitors who attended the convention of the Southern Wholesale Grocers here last week left for their homes Friday night and Saturday morning, enthusiastic in their expressions of delight at the success of the Atlanta meeting and the splendid entertainments and the fine spirit of cordiality that greeted them on every hand.
The convention was in session three days, during which many fine addresses were heard, the reports of the various committees and officers received and much business of vital interest to the association and to all wholesale grocers were transacted.

"It was by all odds the largest, most enthusiastic and most successful meeting which the association has held in the past six years," said President J. H.
McLaurin to the Piping Line representatives before his departure for his home at Jacksonville, Fla. "I predicted a month or so before the meeting that it would be one of the best in our history.
The result, however, indeed far surpassed my expectations. For members present for the visitors, visiting jobbers, manufacturers and manufacturing agents, the attendance was record breaking. The hotels themselves state that their capacity was taxed."

"Among the most important things accomplished by this meeting was a large increase of membership. Many non-members attended heard the addresses, reports of committees, and became acquainted with the aims and purposes of our organization. They liked it so well that many of them immediately enrolled themselves as members and many more will do so in the near future."

"The keynote of the meeting was business—business from start to finish.
A fine spirit of enthusiasm and optimism prevailed. All the talks were characterized by a hopeful outlook for the future. Not least among the good things accomplished by the Atlanta gathering was the number of fine addresses delivered by prominent men in all walks of life. These addresses were full of information and interest to every business man."

On Saturday, May 8, the city salesmen held their regular meeting in the city hall, and were addressed by Hon.
William Schley Howard, Mr. Howard spoke on the bankruptcy law and many other matters of interest to the city salesmen. He told of what had been accomplished by the present democratic administration. He declared himself in favor of the repeal of the present bankruptcy law.

questions by which the highest and best interests of the commercial life of the nation are safeguarded.
"There were strong bids on the part of Memphis, Galveston, Hot Springs and New Orleans for the next convention. This matter, however, will be decided at a meeting of the board of directors."

Mr. McLaurin was re-elected president of the association, an office which he has held for the past six years. Other officers were elected as follows: First vice president, E. L. Adams, of Atlanta; second vice president, Mark Mayer, of Little Rock, Ark.; treasurer, James Lanester, of Jacksonville, Fla.

"The reports of the various committees, which were read by the respective chairmen, showed a splendid progress in studying and developing the many economi-

CITY SALESMEN ARE PREPARING FOR OUTING

Ten-Day Stop-Over Secured From Railroads--Big Crowd Will Go

BY H. D. SHACKELFORD.

All the members of the City Sales-men's association are vigorously at work to make their annual summer outing this year at the Isle of Palms a big success. The special train from Atlanta June 25 to be gone six days.

A special ten-day privilege has been secured from the railroads. A ten-day ticket can be secured for $10; the regular six-day ticket costs $6. The main trip will be for six days but as there are a number of members who desire to stay a longer time, the committee has secured from the railroads the ten-day privilege.

BAGMEN WILL HOLD A DAZZLING PARADE AT GAINESVILLE, GA.

Members of Side Degree of the U. C. T. Will Hold High Jinks at Grand Council Meeting on Next Thursday

GREAT RULER LEWIS ISSUES ROYAL SUMMONS

Largest Class of Initiates Will Cross Hot, Hot, Sands, Countersign "Some Fun and a Little More Mirth"

All members of Capitan Guild M. M.
B. have been summoned by Great Ruler Lewis to appear in Gainesville, Fla.
May 20, to attend the seventh annual meeting of the Capitan Guild. This organization of Bagmen of Bagdad, the feature of the annual sessions of the U. C. T.
Grand Council is always a drawing card.
The Bagmen of Bagdad, in the degree of the order, and its principal countersign is "Some Fun and a Little More Mirth."

A feature of the convention program is a parade Thursday afternoon and initiation at night. One of the largest classes ever initiated expect to journey
the hot sands on next Thursday night.
Considerable preparations are being made, and their reception will be made somewhat impressive.

The parade will be a bewildering picture of bright costumes in which the comic will be much in evidence.

RICHARDS EXHIBITS FINE LINE OF BOX PAPER

All of the salesmen of the S. P.
Richards company are at headquarters working on their fall samples. They expect to return to their territories about the end of the month. They declare that they have many new things for the trade, especially in box paper.
H. M. Kopplin of this company has been exhibiting when the Piping Line representative called, some of the new box papers in many new and beautiful shades. "We have an extensive line of box paper," said Mr. Kopplin.
There are numerous novelties in the line that will delight the trade and consumers everywhere."

HUDSON HAD HIGH OLD TIME AT ROME

E. M. Hudson, of McCord-Sutton company, went to Rome with the Rotary club on last Wednesday. He had the best time he ever had. The trip contained many interesting features. He was the unusual puller off by the Rotarians. The trip included a visit to the Vatican, a tennis match, a baseball game, a barbecue, and a dinner at shorter college style. "We all went up to Rome in one coach," commented Mr. Hudson, "but it took three coaches to bring us back."

WIN THE FIRING LINE WITH THE COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS

E. P. Lewis, of the McClure Ten Company, who has been ill for ten days with grip, is reported to be improving rapidly and is expected back at his desk in a few days.

P. R. Little, of Dougherty-Little-Red company left Friday afternoon for New York where he will be gone for ten days on a buying trip for the dry goods and notions departments of his firm.

J. L. Wallace and E. L. Cain, live wire salesmen of the D. R. Wilder company, spent the greater part of last week at Atlanta meeting and mingling with the buyers who were here attending the meeting of the Southern Wholesale Grocers' association.

The following travelers of John Siler & Co. have been in all the past week getting ready their fall samples. E. C. Jones, J. W. Hughes, George E. McCord-Stewart and Banks White. They will all leave for the road on Monday with a complete line of fall samples as well as with samples for flimsy goods.

J. O. Castleberry, of the Dougherty-Little-Red company, came into headquarters Friday morning with a big bunch of orders.

D. Slapper, of Rice & Hutchins Atlanta Co., secured a large number of orders for fall shipment on the Seaboard road last week.

Shubert C. Perkins, sugar broker, of New Orleans, and E. W. Berdon, of New Orleans, were visitors last week at McCord-Stewart company's. They were attending the meeting of the Southern Wholesale Grocers.

Mr. New, of New & Co., of Duluth, Ga., one of the prominent business men of that city, was a visitor in Atlanta last week, making the trip in his automobile. He was a visitor at the Brown & Caldwell company and bought a nice bill from that firm.

Paul E. Newborn, north Georgia representative of the Brown & Caldwell company, was visiting the trade at Atlanta and nearby points last week. Mr. Newborn continues to uphold the reputation as one of the most active salesmen who travels out of Atlanta.

B. Carlton, of the Capital City Tobacco company, an enthusiastic Rotary member, expected to go on the Rotary trip to Rome last week, but he was, however, spared practically the entire week on jury service. It was during the week previous that he was summoned to court service and he expected to be off this week, but he was caught on a lengthy case which lasted much longer than he expected.

S. M. Rosenfeld, of the Rosenfeld company, was in for a few days last week from his Florida trip. While he was in Florida, he was at the home of W. H. Rosenfeld. He left the latter part of the week for a trip through Virginia and North Carolina.

B. L. Armstrong, representative of the cigarette department of the American Tobacco company, and G. L. Archer, Jr., representative of the cigarette department of this company, were visitors last week at the Capital City Tobacco company.

It is still vinegar season at the Dixie Pickle and Preserving company. This company is putting up barrels in barrels, quart bottles and gallon jugs. The vinegar is going out very rapidly to the trade. It is just now in the height of the vinegar season and the orders are coming in from both the city and country.

A. W. Rosenfeld, of the Rosenfeld company, is expected to be back at his desk Monday. Mr. Rosenfeld has been away for several weeks on a buying trip and later spent some time on a vacation at French Lake Springs, Ind.

Among the visitors and patrons of the Lamar & Rankin Drug Co. during the last week were: Dr. John Gerding, Dr. J. P. Ivie, Dillard, Dr. W. B. Mallory, Concord, Dr. W. B. Ford, Platville, Dr. J. T. Wadkins, Union City, Dr. C. Richards, Albany, Dr. W. P. Allen, Woodbury, Dr. W. H. Lyday, Hampton, Georgia.

Robert H. Patterson, general sales manager for the C. H. Cigarette and Thelma cigarettes, leaves next week for an extended western trip.

L. L. Barnes and G. S. Thelma are having wonderful success with the Thelma Rose-Trip cigarettes in the east and especially New York and Washington.

Gray Singleton, who travels Florida, and A. S. Harris, who travels Alabama for the A. M. Robinson company, were both among the top-dollars of this firm during the past week.

John Tate, of Ridley-Williamson-Wyatt company, had a most successful week in his north Georgia territory. C. L. Williamson, of this company, spent the week among his trade in the southern part of the state.

The A. M. Robinson company continues to have very active trade on Pine Beach suits. They are receiving many orders and are able to take care of all of them. Last week the factory department received a big shipment of Pine Beach hats and caps for which a very strong demand was immediately experienced.

HUDSON PREDICTS ICED COFFEE AS NEW DRINK

Says Its Use Is Growing in East and in Foreign Countries

"Iced coffee will no doubt be a popular drink in the south as soon as it will soon be found on bills of fare at restaurants and hotels," said E. M. Hudson, of McCord-Stewart company. "Iced tea is now perhaps the best known summer beverage. It, however, is comparatively new. Iced tea was a decided novelty twenty years ago; now, however, it has gained wide popularity. Iced coffee is following the same line of progress in the United States in sections of the east and in many European countries. Iced coffee is already firmly established in popular favor and is gaining popularity every year. I expect soon to see it have as wide a use as iced tea."

CHILDS WILL CONDUCT GIDEON MEETING TODAY

Chas. G. Childs, chairman of the state board of trustees, will lead the regular Gideon meeting Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the Adelphi hotel, pastor E. Mrs. T. H. Jackson will preside at the piano. There will be good music and singing. Traveling men are given a cordial invitation to attend. Ladies are always welcome at Gideon meetings.

Were pleasant visitors at the Piling Line office on Saturday morning. These brothers have headquarters in Atlanta and are now traveling together in a Ford automobile. They have many adventures along the way and secure much fine business for their firm.

W. O. Stamps, of Fain & Stamps, was in smiling humor on Saturday morning. Mr. Stamps gave up practically his entire time to the entertainment of the visitors to the "grocery" convention last week, but in his absence he found that the force had secured a fine week's business.

W. A. Lightfoot, Florida traveler for the J. K. Orr Shoe company, was among the salesmen who turned in a large week's business.

Arthur Whitteymer, of Ragan-Malone company, was in at headquarters for the week end after having had one of the biggest week's business he has had in quite a while.

J. R. Armstrong, of Ridley-Williamson-Wyatt company, was at headquarters on last Friday and met a number of visiting customers. He had a good road business for the week also.

F. H. Atlee, of the A. M. Robinson company, who has been ill for a number of weeks, is now feeling better and is now steadily improving. He hopes to be back at his desk soon.

Among the travelers who were in at headquarters for the week end at the A. M. Robinson company were C. A. Smith, Chris Trib, Warren Perfect, Sewell and L. B. Robinson.

John Stivey & Co. will this week begin work on their semi-annual inventory. It is expected that the job will take at least four days.

Mr. Turner, of the Copeland Turner headquarters, of McPherson, Ga., was a visitor last Thursday at Rice & Hutchins Atlanta company.

The "ins" at Fain & Stamps were W. T. Culpender and Chas. Edwards.

News Notes of Fulton Council 505

BY C. E. BYRD.

J. J. Kennedy is spending Sunday in Hattiesburg.

Friends of Bro. L. W. Parker will be grieved to learn of his critical illness in a hospital in Lakeland, Fla. Our local sick committee has been very active in seeing that Brother Parker receives good treatment.

Our members sympathetic with Bro. A. L. Diehl in his recent bereavement, Brother Diehl having lost his brother recently.

Bro. I. F. Ferguson, who has been confined to his home some time on account of sickness, is now recuperating in the mountains of North Carolina.

Bro. F. J. Hunter is in Sunday, after three weeks' trip through Tennessee. Members of Fulton council who have planned to visit the grand council in Gainesville are anticipating a great time. Several will make the trip in automobiles, leaving early Thursday morning.

Quite a number of Fulton council members were in attendance at the Wholesale Grocers' convention last week. They mingled freely among the visitors. The following registered: E. L. Cain and D. L. Wallace, with Bro. R. Wilder Manufacturing company; C. P. Phillips, with Ohio Match company; W. R. Adams, with Liberty mill; J. C. Wilder, with Summa mill; J. T. Viley, Southern Cotton Oil company; E. M. Wright, with Optika Grocery company; W. H. Arnold, with F. W. King company; G. J. Calloway, with Albany Grocery company; T. N. Blake, with Libby, McNeill & Libby.

FINE SUGAR CANE CROP IS NOW IN PROSPECT

"The recent general rains have improved the condition of crops at least 25 per cent," said D. R. Wilder of the D. R. Wilder Manufacturing company. "Reports from our Calro plantation show that there will be a good stand of sugar cane for the next season. Whether or not there will be a good stand of cane was at one time very doubtful on account of the very dry weather, but since the recent rains the cane has sprouted in fine shape and the plant crop is looked for. Reports from the Calro plantation also show that we have 75 acres of as pretty cotton as is to be found anywhere. Corn and cotton are both looking well."

Mr. Wilder reports trade now as very active on candy and syrups.

DEMAND NOW ON FOR ALL PICNIC GROCERIES

"With the coming of warm weather we are finding a decided demand for all picnic and cold lunch groceries," said Donald McKie of the H. L. Singer company. "This includes all sorts of canned meats, pickles, olives and condiments. In fact it may be said that the picnic season is just on and the retailers therefore are putting picnic groceries in stock and are calling upon us for the goods. We notice this increased demand every season about the middle of May. It continues pretty active throughout the summer."

ALLEN EDWARDS IS NOW CITY SALESMAN

Succeeds W. A. Quarles of Fain & Stamps—Is Succeeded by O. T. Broyles

Allen Edwards, who has been the efficient out-of-town shipping clerk of Fain & Stamps, will succeed W. A. Quarles as city salesman. Mr. Quarles has resigned to become head of the grocery department of the J. H. High company.

Mr. Edwards began with Fain & Stamps as receiving clerk, later was assistant shipping clerk and then was shipping clerk for the out-of-town trade for a number of years. He knows his stock from beginning to end and will undoubtedly make a worthy successor to Mr. Quarles, who has counted one of the best men in the city trade.

Mr. Edwards' former position as shipping clerk will be filled by O. T. Broyles, son of R. A. Broyles, who has also had large experience in the grocery trade.

How Atlanta Women Can Make Business Better

The woman in the home is the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

That is, in nine-tenths of the homes in this town.

If she doesn't actually do the buying in person, she so influences and controls it, that it comes to the same thing.

There isn't a woman in Atlanta or in Georgia but could make business better for her home community IF SHE WOULD.

It is simply a matter of buying HOME MANUFACTURED GOODS.

Women ought to understand WHY this is.

Surely they would lend a hand if they realized how much their efforts meant to themselves, to their husbands, and to their town. Maybe we can make it just a bit clearer than this.

You know, of course, that a community is prosperous in proportion to the prosperity of its industries.

Atlanta is an industrial center. Thousands of workmen and their families are dependent on the wages paid them by Atlanta employing manufacturers.

These factories must have a strong, steady demand for their output if they are to run full time and keep their workmen busy at living wages.

If HOME FOLKS will demand HOME GOODS, there won't be any trouble about keeping the plants humming all the time.

Every time an Atlanta woman gives the preference to a foreign-made cracker, for example, she lessens, just that much, the chances for the success of the Atlanta cracker-maker and his bakers.

Same way with other products. Every time an Atlanta woman fails to demand ATLANTA goods when those goods are equal in quality and no higher in price than goods made far from home, she is striking a blow at HOME PROSPERITY.

The industries of a town or community are its best asset.

They bring people there to work, and these workmen have families to support. Their earnings must be spent in the town where they are employed.

Thus, you see, the money flows into the channels of general trade.

Your husbands and sons, ladies, who are working for YOU, must get their share of the business thus produced.

Let this business be weakened or cut off and YOU feel the result.

Think about this.

You can make business better for YOUR OWN FOLKS by insisting on patronizing the factories of your own city and community.

The merchants of the town can get their goods quicker, more conveniently, more cheaply from local factories than from distant ones.

Tell your merchants this, ladies. Then back up your argument with your ORDERS.

That's where YOU come in—INSIST ON HOME GOODS.

Atlanta Doctors Disagree Over "Twilight Sleep"

Majority Say It Is All Bad--Minority Continue Its Use in Restricted Form and Find That Results Are Good--Medical Opinion Has Crystallized.

USE of "twilight sleep" in Atlanta has decreased in the last few months, and is opposed now in all forms by the majority of physicians here.

But several of the best known Atlanta doctors continue to employ scopolamine in limited quantities, and find that the effects are good.

A physician who was among the first to use "twilight sleep" in Atlanta, and who still employs scopolamine where the condition of his patients justifies its use, said last week:

"Opinion among Atlanta physicians about 'twilight sleep' has now crystallized enough to make it plain that the majority are opposed to it in any form. They say that it won't do at all. But those of us in the minority believe that in a modified way it is harmless and desirable. It lessens suffering, it has no bad effect on either the mother or the child, and is a valuable addition to medicine."

"But no one here now thinks that actual 'twilight sleep,' in which the mother loses consciousness, is free from danger. This extreme method was started at Freiburg, Germany, you know, and it was advertised from the hospital there. But we believe now that these Freiburg physicians are fakirs, and that they had no real foundation for their claims."

"They reported innumerable cases where the mother was made completely unconscious and suffered no pain whatever. Even in a hospital we think that such a method would be attended by danger. In the home it is accompanied by very great risk."

"I have tried this extreme treatment in Atlanta, though under the best circumstances, and have met with success; but I will not take such a chance again."

"The contention made by the minority of Atlanta physicians who believe in 'twilight sleep,' is that this method, when wisely used, is without danger and is the means of preventing a great deal of suffering."

"By wise use I mean two things: First, that scopolamine (which is the drug used to induce 'twilight sleep') shall not be employed except where the patient is in a physical condition, which seems to us to warrant the use of such drugs. And, secondly, that it shall be used only in small quantities, that it shall be given with greatest care, and that a doctor shall be with the patient all the time that she is under the effects of it."

"In other words, the minority of us who believe in 'twilight sleep' don't believe in an actual sleep. We don't believe in inducing unconsciousness. That's always dangerous. We simply believe in using scopolamine in sufficient quantities to mitigate suffering. Where the patient's condition is unfavorable for the use of scopolamine we don't believe in any attempt at 'twilight sleep.'"

"So you see, even those of us in the minority are conservative. But there has been among some physicians in Atlanta a senseless opposition to this method. They have said it is bad, largely because it is new, and they are unfamiliar with it."

"Those of us who are in favor of a mild form of 'twilight sleep'—really not a sleep at all—believe that any measure which prevents pain and leaves no bad effects is a good measure."

Among the physicians here who oppose 'twilight sleep,' one said last week:

"This method is used here much less frequently than it was two or three months ago. It was a fad, and, with- out considering the serious possibilities of it, a good many people accepted it as a sort of God-send."

"In reality 'twilight sleep,' which was brought to America from Germany, has long been discredited in Germany and everywhere else in Europe. Where enough scopolamine is used to have any appreciable effect, it is dangerous both to mother and to child. In a hospital where there is every equipment and nurse and physician have had much experience in administering scopolamine, the risk is lessened, but even then I believe there is danger."

These two statements represent the divided opinion of Atlanta physicians, following the use here for about six months of modified forms of 'twilight sleep.'

The majority of Atlanta doctors believe that this so-called sleep is bad, no matter how limited the quantity of scopolamine. Several of those whose opinions were asked last week said that it is being used less and less here.

The minority believe that in a restricted way this sleep is largely a forgetfulness of pain and leaves no bad effects.

The doctors quoted here were named, because, for ethical reasons, they objected to their names being printed.

Rabbit and Calf Are Firm Friends

DOUGLAS, Ga.—Animals frequently form strange friendships, a fact that is illustrated by an occurrence on the farm of Judge W. P. Ward. There, a rabbit and a calf have become inseparable. The rabbit, which has been tamed and is kept most of the while in a cage, is released occasionally to try its legs and breathe the air. The moment it is turned out of the cage it hurries down to the barn, and, until it is caught and penned up again, it remains with the calf. Both seem to look forward with the greatest pleasure to seeing each other. What will poor bunny do when the calf becomes a cow?

Singing Prisoners Are Most Dangerous

ROME, Ga.—Jail officers here have made a queer discovery: When prisoners begin to sing just as though their hearts are full of innocence and joy, they are about to break jail, and maim or murder anyone who attempts to prevent them.

Recently, when there was an outburst of joyful song among the white prisoners in the Floyd county jail, the sheriff made an inspection. He found that the bars of one window had been broken, hidden under a mattress to aid in the escape.

But in reality, Father Hedgehog stayed right where he was; and, as the story told, Mother Hedgehog popped out at the far end of the row and looked so much like her spouse that Mr. Rabbit thought he was beaten.

It was a story to delight children; and, to add to their delight, they acted it as they read. Two little girls took the part of the Hedgehog family, one was Mr. Rabbit. The two would bob up at opposite ends of a row of desks, and Mr. Rabbit would run back and forth, vainly trying to prove his fleetness.

Better, don't you think, than the old way of reading?

The story was arranged in the way of a little play; and each child read her lines with the expression and vigor of a very good actor. Those who were not reading listened intently.

Each pupil in that class was being taught to read for the story, and not simply for the pronunciation of words.

Here you have the fundamental idea of the new system by which reading is taught. Children in Atlanta public schools are not drilled simply in words. They are not being taught, parrot-like, to imitate the teacher's manner of reading. They are being given stories in which they feel an interest, and are being led to read them for the meaning of the stories. Also, they are being taught to dramatize what they read.

This same class is learning about Robinson Crusoe. It is reading a little book which tells of the incidents of his strange adventure; and, so engrossed are the children, that with mind and hand to read them they have constructed Robinson Crusoe's island, and have reproduced every detail given in the story. They have built Crusoe's cave, they have pictured the Friendly Woods; one little girl, out of rabbit skin, made the cap for the doll which passes for Crusoe; one little boy, with several boxes of matches and slow-burning pine wood, made a hundred of charcoal (really, truly, charcoal) which was buried under the sand to represent the charcoal pit; a little girl made a raft of bits of bamboo; and the whole was completed by a tent over the entrance to the cave, with Robinson in his rabbit skin cap, sitting in the shade of his canvas roof.

While we were with this class they were made to turn to a chapter they had never before read. Each child pored silently over the book; and, then, each contributing a bit, all told the incidents they had read, and omitted not a single detail.

Their concentration, their keen observance was surprising. They forgot nothing. Not one grown person in ten could have read the chapter and repeated it so well. In all their reading, they are getting facts and not words.

We went next to a second grade which was studying the lives of the shepherd people. But the children had gone further than the learning of dates and customs. Their reading had been made to them intensely personal. Of rect and human, and these little people were busy weaving rugs, just as the shepherd people once were. They had small looms, and both boys and girls, with different colored threads, made rugs.

They were in this way dramatizing, visualizing, studying.

In nearly all studies in the first four grades the element of play enters, but it is not an element that wastes time. It is one that stimulates interest and makes the things that are studied real and worth learning.

Children at one school are memorizing weights and measures by means of a toy shop to which they go and pretend to buy quarts and pints, pounds and ounces of imaginary commodities. They measure water and sand, and they know by actual practice what the measures and weights are.

In each first grade is a toy house, which the children furnish with cardboard chairs, and with tissue paper curtains in the windows, and rugs borrowed from weavers of the second grade to be spread on the floor.

They learn what a house is built of, how it is furnished, what the material that goes into its making, and why they are learning these things they also learn something about number and reading, and they get a very simple idea of civics as it applies to home life.

The whole system of teaching has been changed so that nothing is taught in a dull way.

In one of the open-air classes, which are a part of the Atlanta Normal school, we found them studying life in Japan and in China. A little girl had brought from home a Japanese house, a pair of chop sticks, a fan, an umbrella, and two Japanese dolls, one dressed as a boy, the other as a girl.

When we reached the classroom she was acting as a teacher. She had first set up the roof of the pasteboard house, which was detachable from the walls, and asked what it was made of. She questioned her class already about the Japanese umbrella and fan, and described the difference in dress between the Japanese boy and girl. This business of teaching seemed as natural

Atlanta Boy May Aid Search for Arctic Explorer

Stephen Yeandle Is Now in Unalakleet-Stefansson Is Lost Somewhere in the Far North--Airships May Be Used in Search--Yeandle Knew Bartlett.

STEPHEN YEANDLE may aid in the search for Stefansson, the explorer, who has been lost since April 7, 1914, in the Arctic.

Yeandle is a graduate of the Boys' High school, and is commissioned as a lieutenant in the revenue cutter service. He returned to Atlanta this winter to visit his parents, at 312 Capitol avenue; and soon afterward, his mother, Mrs. W. H. Yeandle, died.

At the close of his leave of absence, he left Atlanta to return to the service which keeps him on duty at the "tip of the world."

He is now at Unalakleet, one of the frontiers of civilization, and soon will go aboard the cutter "Tahona," which may bear a hand in the search for the lost Stefansson.

Friends of the explorer believe he is alive, and have asked the government to aid in reaching him by the use of revenue cutters that cruise in the Arctic seas.

Bert M. McConnell, Stefansson's secretary, is now in New York, soliciting money for the construction of three hydro-aeroplanes with which to make an aerial search for the lost man.

He wants the revenue cutters to carry his air-fliers to Wrangell's island, off the coast of northern Siberia, and to remain there as relief ships, while the hydro-aeroplanes try to fly inland over the ice.

Stephen Yeandle had a part in rescuing Captain Bob Bartlett, who was left behind by Stefansson in charge of the ship Karluk, in which the explorer cruised as far north as he could find open water.

Stefansson then began his dash for the far north by sledge, and Bartlett remained with the Karluk in order that the exploring party would have a base of refuge and of supplies to which to return.

But the Karluk was smashed by the ice, and Bartlett set out to walk over the ice fields to the nearest outpost. After the most extraordinary journey a-foot any white man ever made, he reached a small trading post at the rim of civilization and was taken aboard by the revenue cutter Bear.

On board this ship was Lieutenant Stephen Yeandle, of Atlanta, who, until a few months before, had been in charge of the cutter Tahona. On the voyage to Unalakleet, Yeandle and Bartlett became firm friends, and talked over between themselves the chances of finding Stefansson.

Bartlett told of his wonderful trip alone and afoot over the ice and Yeandle described his own experiences in the recent shipwreck of the Tahona, which had gone down off the Attu islands, near the Alaska coast, a week's sailing from any other vessel.

When the cutter sank Yeandle took charge of the other boat, and he and his crew, under his command, finally were washed ashore on a bleak, uninhabited island. Here they lived for days on nothing but seal-porpoise, all of them suffering from frost-bitten and frozen feet.

Finally, they were picked up, were transferred to the revenue cutter Bear; and this vessel, in turn, rescued Bartlett, who had been in charge of Stefansson's ship, the Karluk.

"This man Bartlett," said Lieutenant Yeandle, while he here last this winter, "was one of the most interesting characters I ever met. Of course, all of us had been interested in Stefansson from the moment he set out on his northern expedition. But the way Bartlett talked about him made Stefansson seem an old friend. I believe, like Bartlett, that he is alive, and I'd like best in the world to bear a hand in rescuing him."

Now, Lieutenant Yeandle may have his wish. He is back in Unalakleet, soon to go aboard his ship; the government is being urged to use some vessel of the revenue fleet off the Alaskan coast in the search for Stefansson; and Bert McConnell in New York is getting money for the three hydro-aeroplanes in which he hopes by air-right to find the lost explorer.

The chances are good for Lieutenant Yeandle to add another incident to his long string of experiences in the north. Together with other revenue men of the Alaskan fleet he spends the year cruising off the coast of Alaska, where Siberian coasters, penetrating further north than any other white men, and visiting islands that are reached only by ships of the revenue cutter service.

When the Tahona went down last year, the officers and crew had been on a visit to one of a chain of islands. Less than 100 people, most of whom are natives, live on the bleak, up-jutting rock where the revenue ships touch once a year and other ships never even approach. In this lonely part of the world, the Tahona struck a sunken rock and went down.

The work of the revenue cutter service is to carry law and order into these lonely places, to protect fisheries, to assist ships in distress. So remote is this land that the sea there has never been charted, and the land is as high and rugged as though newly formed.

It is to this service that Lieutenant Yeandle has returned. He has returned, Stefansson, whom he may aid in finding, is the discoverer of the blond Eskimos, the men who were hoisted in 1906 to have been lost in the north, but who, after suffering extraordinary dangers, made his way back to civilization.

His present trip of exploration was financed by the Canadian government, and was undertaken in the interest of science.

His friends of Stefansson believe he still is alive because he is able to live in exactly the manner of Eskimos; he goes out, they say, to dwell in their snow igloos. In their opinion he is living now far beyond the outskirts of civilization, waiting the chance to return.

To her as though she were well along in life and had spent all her days at that occupation. Her class was first nothing of the sluggishness that once went with school study.

There is seldom attention now in Atlanta public schools, attendance has increased, children are getting a complete, fuller training in every way this scholastic year has shown that the new system of teaching is good.

No More Simple Bands Of Gold

Old-Fashioned Wedding Ring is Forgotten Here. Jewelled Settings are Coming Into Vogue

A WEDDING ring of three jewels was ordered last week from an Atlanta jeweler. Diamonds, rubies and emeralds in a setting of platinum were substituted for the gold band. Cupid is departing his old sweet simple ways, is forgetting his manner of the years ago, and growing ostentatious. What a silly fellow, to forget the heart and sweetness of things for mere show!

In years gone by the broad gold circle of mothers and grandmothers gave place to a narrow band; because the old ring was out-worn. Why not something new?

And then, the narrow circle—as plain and bare of ornament as the first wedding ring—grew into an elaborated, much dress-up affair. It had lines and figures carved on the surface; it had geometrical designs; it was dear to the heart of the present-day Cupid, who has forgotten his old simplicity, and from being the god of lovers, has become a dilettante, who potters with art and goes in for the aesthetic.

The ornamental wedding ring is almost popular here; and now comes the wedding ring of jewels.

Ah! Me! Is the fashion of being old-fashioned entirely forgotten?

Not quite, however, because, one jeweler, reaching into his furthest case last week drew out a tray of broad gold rings, seeming like relics.

"We keep these," he said, "for old-fashioned brides, who usually come from the small towns. City folk get chiefly the narrow bands, some few the carved and ornamented ring; and one, as I told you, last week ordered jewels."

He had in one hand a list that he opened and spread out.

"This is what we inscribe in the wedding rings," he explained. "I made up a list the other day of inscriptions last year."

He stopped on finger at the top of the list. That's the shortest inscription we've ever put into a wedding ring.

It was "You."

"And this is the longest."

It was a quotation from Longfellow, and how it must have been cramped to find place inside a narrow band of gold:

"And the night shall be filled with music,
And the cares that infest the day
Shall fold their tents like the Arabs
And as silently steal away."

The frankest was this one: "Dux femina facti," which means, "A woman was the leader of the deed."

"A la fin—to the end."
"Cor unum, via una—one heart, one way."

Esto perpetua—may it last forever.

"Fide et amore—by faith and love."
"Dei gratia—by the grace of God."

The jeweler folded up the list. "A least the inscriptions are old-fashioned," he said. "Here's something new."

He showed a piece of black ribbon to be worn round the neck with a jewel at one end; the ribbon a long affair to reach almost to the waist, then a shorter bit to fit snugly round the neck.

"I don't know that there are many fads here," he reflected. "Southern people don't go to extremes. Dinner rings, of course, are popular. But there are some pet prejudices, for instance, practically no opals are sold here, and no one likes to buy a piece of jewelry where a peacock is used in the ornamentation."

Snaggle Tooth Keeps Willam Glenn from Being Famous at Six

WILLIAM GLENN DUNWOODY, third cousin of Theodore Roosevelt.

As soon as he gets his under front teeth, William Glenn Dunwoody, six years old, of 98 Glenwood avenue, will be the image of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, as well as the colonel's third cousin.

William Glenn is now at the shedding age, and the likeness isn't so striking. But not long ago he was a six-year-old edition of Mr. Roosevelt.

He had the smile, he had the chunkiness, he had the earnestness, he had the energy. All these he still possesses except the smile, which has been somewhat damaged by snaggle teeth, although it shines forth gloriously enough in the accompanying photograph.

But wait until he gets his under front teeth. It's what all the neighbors, his teacher at Hill street school, and his fellow students say. There is a community pride in his resemblance to Mr. Roosevelt, and various expedients have been suggested to hurry William Glenn through the snaggle-tooth period.

At recess children will gather round and look at the place where a fine large tooth is to grow some day, and wonder why it doesn't start sprouting.

"Suppose I thump you on the back. Wouldn't that help?" suggests one.

And another tries to bribe him to taste the tooth growing.

Meanwhile, William Glenn continues his cheerful, but earnest course. He started to school when he was barely six years old, but he was deeply interested; and he promises some day to make a fine scholar.

"He's the most lovable little fellow you ever saw," said his teacher in the first grade at Hill street school last week. "To me he looks very much like Mr. Roosevelt."

William Glenn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Dunwoody, and his father is employed by a Whitehall street store. His relationship to Mr. Roosevelt is traced on his father's side; and it's a fact that his great-grandfather is the minister who married the father and the mother of Colonel Roosevelt.

William Glenn's father has several very interesting letters written by Mr. Roosevelt.

With The Wicked Little Under-Sea Ships

Gunner's Mate William-son Tells of Torpedoes and Submarines, and His Experience as a Deep Sea Diver

CHIEF GUNNER'S MATE W. WILLIAMSON, of Atlanta, has lived his life at sea among torpedoes, submarines, and men who go down into deep water to tinker with the under-sea parts of Uncle Sam's ships or potter around on harbor bottom, among coral and green waving plants.

He gives you a new notion of the efficiency of submarine warfare and how it is that these hideous ships of no size to mention may keep a whole great navy powerless.

Williamson left Atlanta when he was sixteen to enlist in the navy, and almost immediately entered the seaman gunner's school at Washington, then at Rhode Island. After graduation, which followed ten-months' study, he was assigned to the battleship "St. Louis," and since that time, until a year and a half ago, has sailed to many ports and, as a deep-sea diver, has plumbled the shallow parts of all the Seven Seas.

From China he sent a message to the girl of his choice back in Atlanta, and when the answer came "Yes," he set out for home, was married here, and now is stationed in Atlanta as a naval recruiting officer.

Last week he was telling about various things of the navy, torpedoes, deep-sea diving, our invincible gunmanship, and what tricky, venomous little fellows submarines are.

Three boys, sixteen, seventeen and eighteen, were just leaving the recruiting office at the custom house—that office of which you are reminded, first by an impressionistic group of colored illustrations at the corner of Forsyth and Walton, showing the gallantries of sea life; and then, by less dashing but more gaudily-colored posters near the custom house elevator.

The three youths had felt a disinclination for common seaman berths, and were leaving, rather put out that Uncle Sam insists on starting his sailors at the bottom and proving their worth.

Williamson, the gunner's mate, shook his head.

"They don't seem to have the call of the sea in them," he said. "Why, when I joined the navy I thought the opportunity to be a seaman, to scrub decks on the littles, dirtiest ship our navy has afloat, would be the finest privilege that could offer itself to a man. And I think so, yet. There's nothing like the navy."

But you want to know about submarines and torpedoes," he interrupted himself. "I guess everybody is talking them now."

He reached over for a piece of paper to have it handy in case illustrative sketches were necessary.

"Few people," he began, "realize the range of torpedoes. They can be fired from a distance of three miles with a good chance of hitting; and I have made six out of eight hits with torpedoes at four yards, which is over two miles. At half a mile a submarine is almost sure of its mark. In fact, you might say that when it gets that close a miss is almost out of the question."

And at that distance the only target a submarine is offering is its stern, which is about as hard a thing to hit as any gunner ever shot at. When three miles off, you might as well be aiming at a sea gull.

"A torpedo costs about $4,500 to $5,000 and has such complicated machinery that to make just one requires from 4 to 5 months. In the head of the torpedo are 200 pounds of wet gun-cotton that causes the explosion. Next, is a chamber filled with compressed air. And, thirdly, they have engines and controlling apparatus."

"A torpedo is equipped with two propellers. It is controlled by two rudders, and also has what is called a gyroscope to direct its course. It has a speed of about thirty-five knots, while the Lus-

Convict Escapes And Takes Dog With Him

ROYSTON, Ga.—Hugh Hill, alias Hugh Wall, who about one year ago shot and badly wounded a Mr. Pitts and others near Bold Springs, and was sent to the gang last spring for four years, made good his escape recently at 5 o'clock, carrying the camp's best dog along as a companion on his way.

By some means Hill freed himself from the bunk chains and quietly stole away from camp. A reward of twenty dollars is ready for the man who can summon enough nerve to bring this criminal back into the camp.

Usually a torpedo is fired so that it travels about ten feet under the water. At that depth it leaves a wake, like a ship.

Grippe Causes Breaking Out Of Poetry

VERLY, Ga., May—There has been an epidemic of colds and grippe in this county for the past several months. Hardly a person in this section has escaped the malady. The Monrovia correspondent to the Summerville News last week told of his attack of the disease in this manner:

"Well, we thought we'd give the grip a slip.

But as we live the malady Got a hold of us immediately. With first a cold

And then began The dread disease: With every breeze We'd sneeze and wheeze,

And almost freeze. And my, how we did ache, And my awake

Sees New Valdosta After Half Century

VALDOSTA, Ga.—Rev. L. B. Davis, a retired Presbyterian minister of Atlanta, is in Valdosta visiting his son, C. M. Davis, and looking over the town where he resided in 1859, before there was a railroad in Valdosta and before the pine forests had been cut away.

Mr. Davis was in business here and hauled his merchandise from some distance away. He was here when Colonel DeLeon, the first editor of a Valdosta paper, named the city after Governor Troup's old home in Laurens county, "Val de Aosta," which came from an Italian city of the fifteenth century.

Mr. Davis moved from here to Atlanta and has seen most of that city's growth.

Farmer Who Isn't Bothered by War

LAVONIA, Ga.—T. B. Harrison, of Gum Log district, hands us a statement of the surplus dairy and poultry products sold last year. Mr. Harrison kept two cows and used all the milk and butter his family required. He sold 550 pounds of butter for $110 last year and $60 worth of chickens and eggs. This is a total of $170 surplus in a year from a few chickens and two cows.

Mr. Harrison is one of our best citizens and has been living at home for a long time. He therefore is prepared to live and take things easy, war or no war.

J. W. Newman is Champ Snake Hunter

MR. J. W. NEWMAN, from out north-east of the city, is the champion snake hunter in this section. He has been out twice since the last of March and on the first hunt he got only one, but on the second hunt he got three and they were all big rattlers. Mr. Newman says they have been biting stock in his neighborhood and he has decided to get rid of a few of them at least. Last year Mr. Newman killed a great number of rattlers and this year he says that he is going to try to break his previous record.—Pembroke (Ga.) Enterprise.

Man 76 Years Old Will Walk to Va.

FORSYTH, Ga.—George W. Sheram, a farmer of this county, left Forsyth recently to walk to Richmond. Mr. Sheram is a picturesque character, is seventy-six years old, and is a Confederate veteran. It is his intention to attend the approaching Confederate reunion and to walk the entire distance to Richmond. He expects to make twenty miles a day for the first few days and then to lengthen this distance to thirty-five miles a day. He is quite a walker, having several times walked from Forsyth to various Florida points.

Member of Order For Fifty Years

BRUNSWICK, Ga.—Barely does a man remain a member of a secret order fifty years. Such is the case of Gus Blanton, a resident of Brunswick. Originally he came from Illinois, where in Lebanon, he joined St. Clair Lodge No. 119, Independent Order of Odd Fellows. This was more than half a century ago.

Seaport Lodge of Brunswick has presented the veteran secret order man a handsome jewel with twenty-four diamonds.

Do You Know Who They Are?

HOW TO ARRANGE YOUR HAIR FOR BEAUTY

BY MRS. HENRY SYMES

The Side Part Looks Dainty

The Middle Part Lends Quaintness

IT WOULD be difficult for me to state how many letters I receive every week from girls of 15, or near that age, asking me how they should arrange their hair. I am always glad to receive such letters, for it means that these girls know the value of personal appearance and are doing their best to find out in what way they can look their best.

No particular style can be set down as a standard for the girl of this age. One must take into consideration a girl's features, a girl's stature and a girl's general make-up before suggesting any arrangement. It is always advisable for a girl to experiment with the many arrangements at her command and then select the style that is most becoming to her. There are, no doubt, some girls who will be able to adopt more than one arrangement.

The thing every girl should remember in arranging her hair is to assume natural lines always. False textures are not for the 15-year-old girl, who has youth in her favor and needs no artificial means to enhance her beauty. For this reason, the grace of the soft pompadour is particularly suitable for the girl in her youth. The most satisfactory way to arrange the pompadour is to part the hair at each side, right over the ear, comb the front section over the face and then draw it all back and puff it slightly. The strand is then fastened at the crown of the head with a hair-pin, a comb or a small barrette, and the ends are combed in with the back hair and the whole twisted into an eight, or it can be divided into two parts and rolled into two buns. Another way to dispose of the hair is to roll it in under so that the Dutch cut is formed. When the curlers are complete the hair should be combed at the sides to conceal the parts originally made.

Very boyish is the side part, placed either at the left or the right. This line is very becoming to the girls with clear-cut features and often improves the lines of an extremely oval face. Girls, you should be most certain that the scalp is almost immaculate before you attempt to part the hair. There is to my mind, nothing more disgusting than a parting in the hair which is full of dandruff and dirt. By massaging the scalp once a day for ten minutes and brushing the hair for about the same length of time the scalp can be kept free from these things, which keep the hair from being healthy and attractive. It is also essential that the hair be shampooed as often as necessary. Many persons, young girls and older women, write to ask how often they should wash their heads. Here is another case where no definite rule can be laid down. There are many things to be taken into consideration before giving an answer to such a question. The kind of work one does, the condition of the town or city in which one lives and the health of the scalp and hair must all be considered. The best answer, however, is that the hair should be washed as often as necessary to keep it in a clean and sweet condition.

Contrary to some opinions, the low arrangement of the pompadour is very good for younger features. A very simple way to make the pompadour is to divide the hair into three at the back, after the front has been dressed, and then, to take the middle section, roll it up over the fingers and pin it lengthwise at the back of the head. After it has been fastened securely the other two strands are wound loosely around the ponytail and pinned firmly. The high ponytail, however, should be avoided by the girl in her teens. It has a tendency to make her appear older.

Parting the hair in the middle has just the opposite effect from the side part—it lends a quaint air and softens the features to a wonderful degree. In parting the hair in the middle, do not draw it severely to the sides. Arrange it with the comb or the fingers so that it falls in soft waves or scallops over the forehead.

Generally becoming to the youthful face is the coronet braid. One way to effect this style is to part the hair in the middle, or the side, and then to part it again at the ear line. Comb the hair up at both sides and pin it slightly above each ear, being careful, of course, to have it fall softly over the forehead. Braid each section and draw the braid at the right side to the left, winding it around the head, and draw the braid at the left side to the right, treating it in the same manner. Tuck the ends of the hair beneath the braids and join the coronet securely. Frequently there are girls whose hair is thick enough but not long enough to be arranged in the manner just described. In such a case the braid at the right should be drawn around to the right, and the braid at the left should be drawn around to the left.

The space between the braids at the back of the head is filled with a solid barrette or with a bow of ribbon. When the braids are short it is best not to arrange them too low over the forehead.

I have spoken largely about the hair pinned up on the head for the reason that many girls when they reach the age of 15 insist upon doing away with hair ribbons. I am anxious that this class of girls should be drawn around to the right, and the braid at the left should be drawn around to the left.

Low Arrangement of the Pompadour is Good the styles intended for grown-ups. Remember that you have more years beyond the twenty mark than you have before it, and it is to your advantage to make the most of these tender years.

Now for the girls who are not anxious to twist their hair into pigtails, know and buns there is a style which is very appropriate for the "teen" age. Of course, the front arrangement can be any one of these I have referred to before in this talk. But the back can be styled in two ways. The first is to have one braid and allowed to hang free. A ribbon or a barrette can be used to keep the strands braided. The girl who has curly hair can let one graceful curl hang down the back.

If a girl of 15 is large for her age she should not wear her hair hanging; for it is quite likely that such an arrangement would make her appear ridiculous.

Hen Mothers Six Kittens And Feeds Them All Worms

She Drives Away the Parent Cat and Nearly Smothers the Six Kitties By Trying to Sit on Them.

CORDELE, Ga.—A. E. Grant has a hen which isn't afraid of cats. In fact, she likes them. Several days ago this following-fowl made an effort at setting, but there were no eggs for her to set on, and Mr. Grant tried to dispel from her mind this ambition by taking up the nest. It happened that just a few feet away from the hen's former nest in the barn there was an old baby and her family of six wee kittens. The hen was locked in the chicken yard, but she escaped, and a search for the kittens was made. Between almost smothering them and giving them nothing but worms and such like to eat, the kittens were almost dead when found. Observing the hen later, Mr. Grant found that every time the old baby would approach them, the hen would fly furiously at her, perch on her back and peck her vigorously.

Judge Woods Tells How to Land a Trout

WE were chatting about that perennially pleasant pastime, fishing, when my good friend of long standing, Judge William Woods, of Atlanta, made this very true statement: That few persons heretofore have known how to land a trout when they have once hooked him. "It took me the longest time," he said, "to get the hang of it. I used to throw a trout with one jerk high out of the water, and many's the time I've lost a fine fish that way. An expert knows that a quick little jerk when the trout has tightened the line, and then a gradual play of line and reel until he is tired out is the safe way to get him."

"And that reminds me," said Babe Burgess, "how I once threw a ten-pound mud cat fifty yards away from the river. Something had been biting at my hook, and I jerked several times in vain. I gave a mighty jerk and saw the fish leave the hook and go flying through the air. I found him some distance where I had buried him against a tree."

Same Man Is Tried Three Times at Once

THOMASVILLE, Ga.—In the superior court of Thomas county a few days ago three juries tried the same man at the same time over three different charges against the same man. Before one jury Robert E. Green, of this county, was charged with dog stealing. Before another jury he was charged with larceny. And before the third he was charged with selling whiskey. "There were mistakes in the first two cases, but in the third one was convicted and sentenced to twelve months in the chain-gang and six months in jail. The charge of moonshining was dropped, and the man was released. He is alleged to make there is likely, it is said, to send the man who drinks it along the brimstone path."

Many Animals Now For School Study

ONE of the lower grades at the Adair public school of Atlanta recently was studying natural history. A sand-box and a few bits of wood in the corner of the room were converted into a miniature forest. But it was suggested that animals were needed to complete the effect. One little boy next day brought a white rat, but he forgot the cage.

It wouldn't have done to leave the rat all alone in the school room, so the teacher took it home in her muff. The next day she didn't bring it back. The children asked why. She went to the blackboard and drew a picture of one white rat and a whole brood of little ones.

Bad Proofreading Cost Spelling Prize

DALTON, Ga.—When the proofreader for the publishing house that has compiled the speller used in the high school here, away back in 1908 overhauled the mispelling of the word "ecstasy," it meant that pupils of the Dalton high school were to experience deep regret for the error. The Dalton spelling contest, the literary cup for the school scoring the highest number of points in the literary contents of the district met in Rome.

In the spelling contest, every representative raised as many words as the judges held, and it was necessary to have a second contest. Miss Mary Ella Spina's error was in putting the word "ecstasy" the following: "ecstasy, or ecstasy." She had found one of the spelling books with the word "ecstasy" in it. A letter was sent the publishers, and they stated that the error was made in the 1908 edition of the book. They regretted the matter and asking for the privilege of duplicating the prize. Had the judges also been as careless, both the literary and athletic cups would have been brought to Dalton.

Fancy's Pet

One I'll pig in de corner, one I'll pig in de do.
One I'll pig scrunchin' his fleas all over mah back.
—Darktown Mother Goose.

"D'at mah pig pet pig," muttered Fancy Hill.

"Your what pig?" exclaimed the recorder.

"Mah pig pet pig," said Fancy, aggrieved.

"Pig name Jawn. L'il white pig wid pink ears an' a black spot in de middle ob his back."

Fancy Hill, it may be explained, was accused by his brother, Dancy Hill, of making life unbearable by turning their abode into a pen for porkers. Dancy, it appeared, objected to the proximity of the pigs at mealtime and during hours generally devoted to slumber, but spent his time, it seems, in kicking pigs off his pillow.

Dem pigs lak ter bother me ter death," declared Dancy Hill. "Crawl in baid wid me, stick er snout down mah back, an' grunt lak pig wuz huppy. Hit got mah soul, Jedge."

It was then that Fancy Hill declared his brother was a weaver of dreams, that the one and only pig in the Hill home was the afore-said John, the pig with the adorable pink ears and the cute little black spot.

"Why, dat pig Jawn ain't gonna bother nobody," pleaded Fancy Hill. "Best I'll pig I ever seed. I got him trained ter wake me up in de mawnin', an' he feller me 'round lak er dawg. Sides, Jawn done tote me all er story. Ain't but one pig at mah house, an' dat's Jawn. 'Cose, Jawn an' er powerful little pig, an' Dancy might er thought dey wuz me, dan dey wuz. But, p'ussionaly, I think Dancy jest hop up an' lid."

"I think I'll let you go this time, Fancy," said the recorder. "But I hardly call it fair to Dancy to let your pig graze on his side of the house. Shiny on your own side, Fancy, or else we'll be turning him into bacon."

In Delia's Garden

"You're out!" yelled the umpire.

The runner struck in fury.

"Ridance of a nuisance."

Said the coroner's jury.

Three Strikes.

IT must have been something like this, judging from the recital given in the courtroom.

Scene: Delia Duncan's "palm garden" in Hill's Hill Acres. Back stage stretches the diamond garden. The diamond is separated from the garden by a high wall, which is topped by a fence. Delia is covered front, strolling among the palms, which furnish an appropriate background for her daily doings.

Time: The ninth inning with the score 13 to 13. Bud Bradshaw, the ten-year-old tenant, who is known as Sim, the stalwart slugger of the visiting eleven.

At the bat, two out and the bases full; it is a critical moment.

At the instant when the redoubtable Buck winds himself into terrible condition, Delia is seen bend and gently place a June bug from one of the palms. A second later there is the crack of wood against leather, the ball is discovered sailing over the beer bottles. Delia straightens suddenly, her face expressing great grief; her hands behind her. Here the action is rapid, the scene shifting suddenly to the diamond, where boys exit left, followed by beer bottles. Only the June bug resumes his quiet study of helleborus.

Oh, no, the boys were not arrested; Delia got pinched because the neighbors objected to her languishing. As she then said, "Us kin som' things, but when er warden 'oman say mah soul wuz mek er polical sick, I've blessed ter protest."

"Jedge, you'er used some langwidge 'o' self er baseball bounced offen you in er tender spot. Dem boys done wreck mah palm garden 'twin' rocks an' bricks in dere. Is t'ached of it," said Delia.

"Well, to preserve the peace," ruled the recorder.

"I'm going to give you a ball," said the judge, "but let me know the next time your palms suffer, and I'll send a pitcher out there that will strike 'em all out."

The Dreaming of Dennis

Mulligan Stew

I JUST blew into Georgia off an orange special train.

Ridin' rods and swingin' box cars till my hands are blobs of palm.

And the scollin's that you boys have cooked look kinder good to me

After grabbin' pokes and handouts from Key West to Barbary.

But tonight I've lost my appetite for mulligan and beer,

And I hanker after waffles and another brand o' cheer.

Crispy waffles drenched in sorghum with the butter coo'n' free,

Waffles like the ones they griddled for the boy I uster be.

It's not because I'm hungry that I'm bullin' you like this,

For the pain's not in my belt line when I think of 'what I miss;

But I'm longin' for a little house I signaled on the way,

A cabin in a valley that we passed the other day.

Me and Bill was on a freighter shootin' down the Buckshot grade,

I was ridin' on the second blind to get a bit o' shade.

When the meadows flashin' nase me seemed to look familiar-like

And the gray road windin' eastward was the old town pike!

And I squinted down the bottom and 'twas then I seed the roof

Of the little red cabin—and I needed no more proof.

It was just a sweepin' flare of sun before the banks closed in

And the view was swallowed sudden by the tunnel's roarin' din;

I never stopped to greet the folks nor make no formal call.

For we aimed to hit the water-tank to catch the Cannonball;

So I passed the house I hadn't seen since I was ten years old

With just a "Hello, stranger!" to the valley's gray and gold.

Just a mit waved to the hillside where I uster sit and dream

To the whiffer of the pluplars and the chucklin' of the stream

Dreams of honor, fame and fortune out beyond the valley's rim,

Till the day died out in splendor and the fields commenced to dim.

When I'd trudged along the pathway to the little old bare gate,

Where in twilight, sweet with roses, a mother uster wait.

But tonight I'm just a hobo in a hungry town, it seems.

And the dreams of yesterday, I guess, was dreams, just dreams.

Perhaps back in the valley they are savin' waffles still,

And another little fellow scampers barefoot down the hill;

And perhaps there is a mother's 'standin' waitin' at the gate—

With her eyes a trifle anxious 'cause the little cuss is late.

But for me there's no more visions—I am beaten, I am through—

All I've got before me—just a mountain stew.

Shimmers of shame radiated up and down the darksome visage of Dennis Branch.

Then he raised his head proudly and bespoke the mercy of the court.

"Jedge, lemme tell you howcome I hang 'round dat 'tint," said Dennis Branch. "I read in de paper dat er gal name Mary git 'bout two million er day fo' jest habin' her pictu' took. Now, I see er pow'll how some nigger, an' I sho' kin see My lady, yes. Dis nigger am some actor!"

"Look heah, jedge!" he exclaimed. "Don't tell me you's swiftness fer er po' boy dat's tryin' ter mok er livin'!"

"No, I'm not," said the recorder. "I'm going to send you up for thirty days. Did it never strike you, Dennis, that you'd make a better cook than actor?"

Another Fish Story

There's many a drunken devil the station warden would have to handle.

But never a souse railed such a carouse as him called Mackerel Mose.

—The Ballad of Mackerel Mose.

DARKTOWN called him Mackerel Mose because of his strange habit when under the influence of liquor of straightway taking into himself a cold, clammy fish and carrying it around as a sort of prop and stay in time of stress.

He had appeared in court several times before on account of his magnificent indifference to these occasions to the ways and means by which he secured his tallismans. But last week Mose was the plaintiff's wife the defendant.

Mose turned his head sideways to the judge.

"See dat ear?" he inquired, firmly grasping the organ in question. "She done dat."

Manifestly, he stroked it gently, and with gentility. In fact, it would have served as circumstantial evidence to convict a buldog of assault with intent to murder.

Mackerel Mose was rather proud of it, however. He stroked it gently, and with gentility. In fact, it would have served as circumstantial evidence to convict a buldog of assault with intent to murder.

When you're hungry for the bed. There's a lot of other reasons.

I could name 'em 'tween me and you. Oh, it's fishin' time in Georgia; it's fishin' time in Georgia; it's fishin' time in Georgia.

Novelty-Mongers Have Endangered Church and State

But Country Is Weary of Innovators and Sensationalists and Is Disposed to Return to Fundamentals. Reaction in Both Politics and Theology.

By Bishop Warren A. Candler.

THESE are cheering evidences that a reaction has begun with reference to novelties of doctrine in both the political and theological world. The country shows signs of having grown weary of innovators and sensationalists, and evinces clearly a disposition to return to fundamentals. The reaction has not come too soon. Both church and state have been endangered by novelty-mongers in recent years; and it is worthy of careful consideration that when innovators abound in the pulpit revolutionary agitators quickly rise up in the political world. The fundamental truths of religion can not be unsettled without giving rise to corresponding unsettlement of the fundamental principles of good government. The type of mind which rejects the Bible is equally disposed to repudiate constitutional limitations; for the fundamental principles of true constitutional government are the unchanging and eternal axioms of political righteousness, and they lie in the same field and quite contiguous with the everlasting verities of morality and religion. Both are disturbed when either is assailed. The Reign of Terror in France illustrates this truth aptly. God was dethroned and bloody disorder followed during that dreadful period. Atheism and anarchy united to dishonor God and destroy men. In view of these obvious truths men of patriotism and men of piety will read with great satisfaction the appeal recently issued by certain conspicuous ministers and laymen of the Presbyterian churches in the United States urging preachers and people to go "back to fundamentals."

Presbyterians Urge Fundamental Faith

The paper in part is as follows:

The undersigned ministers and laymen of the Presbyterian church appeal to all our Churches, ministers, Church officials, and Church courts to unite in action in defense of the fundamentals of our common faith. In view of the deep unrest in the religious thought of the day we believe pronounced and persistent emphasis should be placed on the integrity and authority of the Bible as the word of God, the deity of our Lord Jesus Christ, his vicarious atonement on the cross—the only way of salvation—and his resurrection. We believe these doctrines should be preached from our pulpits, and that the sessions of our Churches should insist that this be done. We suggest, furthermore, when Church is seeking a minister to be its pastor, that it shall not call any man save one who unreservedly and heartily accepts the great fundamentals herein enumerated and taught by our standards. We have been led to express this belief and to offer these suggestions under the deep conviction that only on such a basis can the Church succeed in its mission and the gospel of Christ be propagated to his glory and according to his own will. We are not sure you will unite in prayer with us that all our congregations, ministers, and officers may feel the supreme importance of this present appeal."

This is not the frantic utterance of hysterical fanatics. It is the sober and solemn appeal of some of the most devout and learned men in our country. Among the 16 names signed to the document may be mentioned Dr. Maitland Alexander, of Pittsburgh, Penn.; Dr. M. A. Matthews, of Seattle, Wash.; Dr. D. J. Burrell, of New York; Dr. Charles R. Erdman, of the Princeton Theological Seminary; Dr. Robert Hugh Morris, of Philadelphia, Penn.; Dr. Glenworth Butler, of New Jersey; Dr. George L. Robinson, of McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago; Mr. Charles Beatty Alexander, Regent of The University of New York and one of the Directors of the Equitable Life Insurance Company; Dr. J. F. Corbett, Dean of Surgery in the University of Minnesota, Edward B. Hodge, M. D., of Philadelphia, Penn.; Mr. William Ogden Jones, of San Francisco, Cal.; Mr. Charles E. MacKean, of Macalester College, St. Paul, Minn.; Franklin B. Miller, M. D., of Pittsburgh, Penn.; Joseph Moorhead, M. D., of New York; Mr. Albert Shupe, Wooster, Ohio; Hon. Selden P. Spencer, St. Louis, Mo.; and Hon. John W. Wamaker, Philadelphia, Penn.

Principleless Radicalism Is an Insane Mania

An appeal of such serious and able men cannot be denied. No intelligent man will undertake to poop-poop it as a trifle. It deserves, and will receive, the most careful consideration by thoughtful people everywhere. These wise and earnest men are right in calling us back to fundamentals. To depart from fundamentals is always folly just because they are fundamentals. What progress would be possible in mathematics to a man who began his calculations by repudiating the multiplication table and the axioms of geometry? Nevertheless, in both the political and ecclesiastical worlds there have been in recent years many vain babblers who went beyond the folly of a man who should thus repudiate the fundamentals of mathematical science. Worst of all not a few shallow-pated people have had the audacity to utter as the words of profound wisdom upon which all "progress" was dependent.

It is quite time for this insane mania for principleless radicalism, mislabeled "progress," to be cured. The distemper has lasted far too long. In the case of some persons it has become incurable. These Presbyterian leaders have done a real service to the nation by the appeal which they have issued. Georgians will be glad to see among the signers the names of Dr. Mark A. Matthews, of Seattle, who was at one time the pastor of a leading church in our State, and Dr. Robert Hugh Morris, of Philadelphia, who was a student in Emory College some twenty years ago. Dr. Morris is one of my "old Emory boys," and it gives me the greatest joy, but no surprise, to see that he adheres firmly to the fixed principles which have been proclaimed unwaveringly through all the years at Emory. May all the sons of that loved and revered institution remain faithful always to "the faith once for all delivered to the Saints."

The welfare of the world is involved in the type of religion which prevails in the United States. It is the greatest of the missionary nations and the greatest of modern republics. If we renounce the fundamental principles of constitutional government and evangelical Christianity, we will do much to destroy the confidence of all nations in free institutions and to impair the faith of mankind in all religion. Serious men in every walk of life, therefore, should unite in calling to return to "fundamentals."

That was a praiseworthy and encouraging act of Hon. Ellis R. Rouse, of New York, when as president of the constitutional convention of New York State, he reverently opened the proceedings of the body with prayer in the absence of any clergyman to lead the devotional exercises of the assembly. The example of faith and prayerfulness thus set by one of the greatest lawyers and illustrious statesmen of the nation should not be with out effect upon smaller men. Why should any sensible man be prayerless? Why should any true man hesitate to lead his associates in prayer on any proper occasion? Piety is not an unmanly thing. The lack of it, rather than its practice, bespeaks the want of manhood. That some lawyers utter profanity so easily and profusely, and do not believe in prayer, discredits both their intelligence and their integrity.

Great physicians sign this appeal calling us "back to fundamentals." Why should their names not be signed to such a document? Skepticism does not enhance the skill of a physician nor profane swearing increase the ability of a surgeon. Many of the most illustrious names on the roll of those who have adorned and advanced the medical profession were most devout Christians. Some of the greatest physicians and surgeons of the present age are men of faith and piety. A blaspheming doctor, swagging around the community, vomiting forth the abhorrent symptoms of scientific ability or personal character. If health and decency were the same thing, it would be in order to send the ambulance for him with all haste, and give him the most careful treatment with the utmost promptness. Let men of all classes, and especially the educated men of what are called "the learned professions," namely Theology, law, and medicine unite in this wise call "back to fundamentals."

ATLANTA'S CHURCH NURSERY

Baby Who Was Born On Battlefield, May Visit Atlanta

Francis Baylor Antoine, Age, 26 Days, Will Sail Shortly for New York—Is a Kinswoman of Henry Bedinger Baylor—Father Is a French Nobleman.

FRANCIS BAYLOR ANTOINE, the little American girl who was born "somewhere in France" last month while gunshot of the trenches and amid the roar of cannon, may come to Atlanta.

Her mother, who was Miss Susanne Henning, daughter of an old Kentucky family, whose romantic marriage to the Marquis Antoine de Charette, was the one topic of discussion in international society circles eight years ago, is expected in New York shortly and will be met there by friends from her old home in Shelbyville, Ky.

Then, if plans materialize she may visit here. In that event, she may be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Allen, who have been hosts several times to her mother, Mrs. James W. Henning, noted as one of the most progressive women farmers in America. Mrs. Henning, in Kentucky, has one of the "show" farms of the south, and she herself is an expert in everything that pertains to farming, particularly to stock. On her latest visit to Atlanta she proved her skill by grading the cattle at the Kimbrellville farm.

Through Mrs. Henning, the Marquis Charette, mother of the baby girl born on the battlefield, is known to Atlanta.

The romantic wedding of the Kentucky girl and the French nobleman attracted attention here. It was at high noon on November 11, 1909, that Susanne Henning, daughter of Mrs. James W. Henning, well known here, became the wife of Antoine Charette, better known as "Tony" Charette to folk who knew him here, in Nashville and cities in Kentucky. The match was quite romantic. Miss Henning was descended from an old Kentucky family, the Polks, and one of her ancestors was Duc de Berry, of royal blood. But when the marquis asked James Henning, the banker, for the hand of the latter's daughter Mr. Henning shook his head. Many weeks elapsed before all opposition was overcome, but the families of the two young people finally agreed, and they were married in St. Patrick's cathedral, New York City.

Since then the marquis and his wife have spent much of their life in America, but when the war broke out Charette answered the call to the colors, and was commissioned an aide on the staff of General French with the allies.

His young wife followed him to the front as a Red Cross nurse, and there on the firing line, near General French's headquarters, little Francis Baylor Antoine was born. Letters and cablegrams to friends in Atlanta brought the news.

Now the little war baby is coming to America with her mother, and, perhaps, at some not far distant day, she will clasp her chubby fingers in the hands of Atlantians.

But probably she will refuse to talk about the war.

Black Cotton May

Soon Be Possible

BLACK cotton to produce black lint is the product which A. W. Brabham, of Charleston, S. C., is working to grow. Already he has given four years' steady work to the raising of red cotton, and his efforts have been crowned with success. Now he is going after the black with equal tenacity. If he succeeds, his product will not only take a unique place among valuable industries, but he will rival Luther Burbank in fame.

In a recent article in the Charleston News and Courier, Mr. Brabham explains his experiment in this wise:

"God gave man five primal sorts of cotton—white, red, brown, yellow and black. The black has been lost somewhere in the mists of the ages, but every experienced breeder knows that so long as the species exist the lost variety can be restored. To this end I am working to restore black cotton, and only last week the first start was made by planting deep green linted cotton, red linted cotton and brown linted cotton in my experimental patch, and if I can get the three to come into blossom at the same time, black lint is an assured fact. I am also raising the yellow sort in this test, for that sort must be used in growing another shade."

Divorced Twenty Years, Couple Have Remarried

HOMER, Ga.—Discussions as to the proper education for their son led Colonel Oscar Brown to meet his divorced wife again after twenty years' separation. He was so impressed with her ability that he made her his stenographer. Then he asked her to be his wife again. She accepted. They were married here May 2.

Their first marriage was the result of a romantic courtship, when Miss Ollie McNorton was in school and Oscar Brown a young lawyer at Lawrenceville. That was twenty years ago. They quarreled and separated. Their little son, now more than twenty years old, remained with his mother when the divorce was granted.

Years passed, and Fred grew to manhood. His father and mother heard of each other only through friends, never met or spoke. It was Fred who became the mediator and persuader both of them to take interest in his hopes and ambitions.

A meeting was arranged between the three members of the family and it was decided to send Fred to Georgia Tech. His mother planned to take a business course in Athens.

"Why not be my stenographer?" suggested her former husband.

That depends on the salary," she replied.

The salary evidently was suitable, for when she left the business college she entered the law office, and the wedding took place soon afterward.

Children of All Ages Are Cared for in Nursery at St. Paul's. Other Churches Should Make Similar Provision.

CHURCH nurseries to allow parents to attend services by offering a means to care for their children, are needed in Atlanta.

This is the conclusion of those who have assisted the nursery at St. Paul's Methodist church. Three years ago the nursery was established, and now carries for fifteen to twenty children each Sunday morning and each Sunday evening. The mothers of these fifteen or twenty would not be able to attend church if it were not for the nursery. The same condition probably exists at other churches. Nurseries, in the opinion of those who have had a hand in the St. Paul enterprise, are one of the greatest aids to church attendance.

Children of all ages are cared for at St. Paul's. One baby last Sunday was 2 1/2 months old. He was put to bed, and slept soundly—even snored a bit—from the time his mother left him until she returned. Several weeks before, another, only two months old, was given a bed in the nursery while his mother went to worship.

Comparatively grown-up little men and women of eight and nine months of age are frequent visitors, and those old, worldly people of four and five years are weekly charges.

Miss Katherine Evans has direction of the nursery, and she is assisted by Miss Pearl Evans and by Miss Laila Belter.

Miss Belter, in telling last week of the arrangement of the nursery, said: "We have beds for those who want to sleep, and toys for those who want to play. We do everything we can to keep them quiet. We read to them. We get down on the floor and build block houses, and we tell them fairy stories. When the 'It is' says Burrell, after nearly completing his journey. 'It's just as warm today, warmer even, considering the number of tramps and present hard times.'"

Heart of South Is As Warm As Ever

TO test southern hospitality, Jack W. Burrell, of Middleboro, Ky., is walking through Dixie with 50 cents in his pocket. He left Kentucky on March 1, and, passing through states to the southeast, is now in Arkansas and is nearing his goal, Kansas City.

With him were two other young men, but he has outdistanced them. The first to reach Kansas City first wins a $1,000 prize offered by the Baptist Young People's union of Middleboro. The union's object was three-fold:

To test the average ability of a young man eighteen years old.

To test his honesty by stipulating that the three walkers be not allowed to work or to beg, but take only what is given, and arrive in Kansas City with $10.

And, thirdly, to see whether the hospitality of the south is as staunch as it was twenty years ago.

"It is," says Burrell, after nearly completing his journey. "It's just as warm today, warmer even, considering the number of tramps and present hard times."

CHILDREN being cared for in the nursery at St. Paul's Methodist church. While their parents attend services, they hear fairy tales in the nursery room of the church. But some, like the two at the bottom, prefer just to sleep. In the center of the big group is Miss Katherine Evans, who is in charge of the nursery.
